STATE COLLEGE—The All Pennsylvania three-year-old last year came to the top of the state holstein championship show here last Saturday in the climax of the Pennsylvania show season. Judge Paul King called the show really strong. "They just kept coming better and better," King said.

When the competition ended, Sable-Hill Moch Jewel owned by Queens Manor and Sable-Hill had the grandchampionship. Jewel, the smooth first place four-year-old was first best udder in class and has records over 21,000m and 800f. BY LOU ANN GOOD

DENVER (Lancaster) — Lancaster's best sheep showing pros wrapped up the Denver Sheep Show on Thursday night. New Holland sisters Kristin Chupp and Jodie Weaver took the grand champion and the reserve champion market lambs respectively. Both showed crossbred Hampshire and Suffolk sheep purchased from B & B Livestock in Ohio.

Kristin, a senior at Garden Spot High School, is the daughter of Larry and Barbara Weaver. She plans to attend Penn State to become a veterinarian. Her sister Jodie, daughter of Carol Diffenbach and Larry Weaver, is a junior at the same school. Both have three sheep and spent a lot of time thinking up suitable names. Their champion sheep, named Mutt and Moe, won them reversed champion roles at the ELizabethtown Fair. Jodie said, "Kristin and I are more competitive against the others than against each other."

Carey Donches, a sheep showing veteran for nine years captured the grand champion ewe and lamb of the show with her Suffolks Helium and Satin. Carey, daughter

Take Your Seat, The Performance Is About To Begin.

You'll applaud the performance of Funk's G-Hybrids like G-4543, G-4626 and G-4446 when the curtain falls at harvest time.

A top choice for shelled grain or ear corn in 110 to 120-day maturity areas, G-4543 produces maximum yields even at lower populations. In Delaware hybrid field corn trials, it topped the field with 148.4 bu./A.

G-4626 has it all in a 115 to 120-day maturity hybrid—fast dry-down, outstanding stay-green, superior standability, excellent plant health and exceptional yields. In Delaware trials, G-4626 produced yields up to 200 9 bu /A.

G-4446 delivers superior late season standability, excellent grain quality and high test weights. A multi-purpose, widely adapted hybrid, G-4446 produced a state record 252 4 bu./A. in the 1986 Pa. Five-Acre Corn Club competition

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

SEPT. 19-25, 1988

Line storms and downright warm.

Yom Kippur Sept 21 . Fiftieth anniversary of the New England Hurricane, which devastated region Sept 21, 1938 Autumnal equinox occurs at 2:29 PM EST, Sept 22 . Italo Marchiony patented the ice cream cone Sept. 22, 1903 . . Average length of days for the week 12 hours, 11 minutes . Full moon Sept 25 (Sun.) . First American newspaper published in Boston by Benjamin Harris, Sept. 25, 1690 . Prosperity makes fools, and adversity cures them.

Ask the Old Farmer: My linen tablecloths have yellow spots on them that I can't remove. Can you suggest a method? B.S., Pebble Beach, Calif.

Those spots may be rust spots if the linen was washed, not rinsed enough to get all the soap out, and then ironed. The heat of the iron caused the soap to turn yellow Put fresh lemon juice on the spots, then cover with salt. Stretch the area tightly over a pan and pour hot water through the stains.

Home Hints: Sow poppies now for an early spring bloom

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

Fair Friendship

We haven't felt much "nip in the air" yet. But the calendar says it's fall fair time. Time to sort out the best veggies, canned fruits and cut flowers from the back yard and garden to prepare an exhibit.

At the barn the FFA and 4-H youths should be grooming and training their pet project for the show. Even dads can be forgiven if they're pulling out the best slice of alfalfa hay or the perfectly matched dozen ears of corn to enter. This year the early dry weather may take it's toll on the size and perfectness of the ears. But the number of entries may be down, so you'll have a better chance to win.

Those who nurtured summer plans to grow the largest pumpkin or the best tasting celery get a special feeling this time of year. You can't describe this feeling but you know you will not be satisfied until you go, at least one evening, to see the parade and all the new equipment that the local dealer trucked into his booth at the fair ground.

But most of all you can't miss seeing the people—not only your farm friends, but friends from town too. Friends that get together with friends at ag fairs are the best friends. Somehow, the barriers that are erected between city and country throughout the year fall to the force of friendship beside the livestock tent or next to the display of quilts.

So pull on your long sleeve shirt and put your friendship to work at the local fair. See everybody there.

NOW IS THE TIME

By Jay Irwin
Lancaster County Agriculture Agent

To Observe National Farm Safety Week

The proclamation of September 18-24 as the 45th Annual National Farm Safety Week is very important during this busy corn harvest and fall grain planting season. Agriculture has helped to make America a land of plenty. But providers of this abundance often are seriously or fatally injured while working to feed and clothe us. According to National Safety Council estimates for 1987, such mishaps, resulted in about 1,600 deaths and 160,000 disabling injuries. Agriculture continued to have one of the highest death and injury rates (per 100,000 workers) of the major U.S. industries.

Cost-conscious farmers needn't fear that it's costly to be safe. Most of the investment simply would be personal attention rather than dollars.

Let's practice safe habits every day.

To Be Aware Of The Century Farm Program

The Century Farm Program is aimed at recognizing the efforts of Pennsylvania's farm families which have preserved the tradition of the rural heritage of the pioneer farm.

The program was started as part of the Nation's bicentennial observance in 1976, but is being continued for its value in promoting the ideals of the family farm and the importance of farming to Pennsylvania's economy.

To be eligible for Certification as a Century Farm, a farm must have been owned by the same family for the last 100 consecutive years, and a family member must currently reside on the land. In addition, the farm must consist of ten or more acres of the original holdings or gross at least $1,000 a year from the sale of agriculture products.

We encourage you to participate in this program that is administered by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Applications are available at the county extension office.

To Mow Weedy Pastures

If your pasture is weedy, then get out the mower. There are two good reasons for this; one it eliminates the production of weed seeds and two, it removes mature forage which lets plants send out new and tender growth. But, before you mow, you should graze the pasture heavily. With grazing you can utilize all the available feed. The animals eat some weeds, but they also eat some of the tall grasses that would be wasted by mowing. Remember to mow closely... 2 to 3 inches. And instead of trashing the clippings, save them. Many farmers recover enough hay from pasture mowings to winter their cattle.

To Secure Wood Supply

Many homeowners are planning to use more wood for heating their homes this winter. This is a national trend resulting in a strong demand for all kinds of wood. Prices are also reflecting this increased demand. Woodlot owners might be in a position to do some tree culling and thinning and realize some extra income from the area. It's not too early to be getting this wood on hand or to do some cutting. Since dry wood will give better results than green wood, it will be best to have the wood supplies cut and drying before cold weather arrives. As I have traveled the county in recent weeks, I have noticed more and more wood piles in rural areas. Wood is a replaceable natural resource and deserves our attention in production as well as marketing for fuel saving purposes.

Penn State Cooperative Extension is an affirmative action, equal opportunity educational institution.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHY, GOD? WHY?

September 18, 1988

Background Scripture: Job 29 through 30:27.
Devotional Reading: Psalms 69:1-15.

We sometimes speak of "the patience of Job," and he was a patient — or better, perhaps, a man of abiding faith. But that does not mean that Job passively accepted all the terrible things that happened to him. Job did not understand why these calamities had come to him. But, unlike many of us, Job didn't spend his time complaining to his friends and neighbors — if he had any left — but took his agonizing questions and feelings directly to God. Obviously, Job thinks there is something wrong with the way things are going and he doesn't hesitate to tell God just what he is thinking.

THE MONTHS OF OLD

We can't help but feel deep sympathy for Job when he tells God that he wishes that he could return to the way things were: "Oh, that I were as in the months of old, as in the days when God watched over me... and by his light I walked through the darkness" (Job 29:2,3). In the good old days he had felt that God was with him. He had enjoyed the respect and admiration of his fellow townsmen. He had occupied the pre-eminent position in his whole area. But now, he feels all alone and, instead of respect, "...now they make sport of me...They abhor me, they keep aloof from me" (30:1,10).

When, like Job, we find ourselves in the midst of misfortune, one of the first signs of our situation is the way in which we may seem to be abandoned by our friends and others. In prosperity our circle of friends, associates and supporters seems to have no end. In adversity, we often find — or at least we think — that we stand alone. And, bereft to this human support, we may also assume that God has deserted us and we yearn for the return of the days when "the Almighty was yet with me" (29:5).

ALL IN VAIN?

When adversity closes in upon us, like Job, we wonder what was the good of all our attempts to help others. Was it all in vain, we wonder? In his prayer, Job recited to God a long list of his good works: "I was eyes to the blind, and feet to the lame. I was father to the poor, and I searched out the cause of him whom I did not know" (29:15,16). Intellectually, we know that our good deeds do not buy us exemption from adversity, but our hearts seem to forget it.

Job's complaint to God is not a mild theological dispute: "I cry to thee and thou dost not answer me; I stand and thou dost not heed me. Thou hast turned cruel to me" (30:20,21). Some of us might wince at Job's directness, but apparently God regarded Job's honesty as another facet of his faith and loyalty.

Our honest complaints of "Why, God? Why?" do not destroy our relationship with him. Instead, they kept it alive and well.

We Put More Men In The Field Than The United States Army.

Currently, Uncle Sam keeps around 300,000 army soldiers on active duty.

Farm Credit, on the other hand, helps keep over 2 million farmers on active duty. With more loans for more farming needs than any other lending institution.

For many of you, we've been there from the beginning. With money for land, as well as your house and barn.

We help stock the farm, too. With loans for everything from cows to catfish. Seeds to saplings. Fertilizer to fencing.

And when it's time for a new tractor or pick-up, just call us to get the wheels turning.

Farming has been our only field of interest for seventy years. That's because we're farmers too. Farm Credit is owned and controlled by the same farmers who use its services.

What's more, come rain or shine, we'll stick by you in any kind of weather. And when you think about it, that's reason enough to join our ranks.

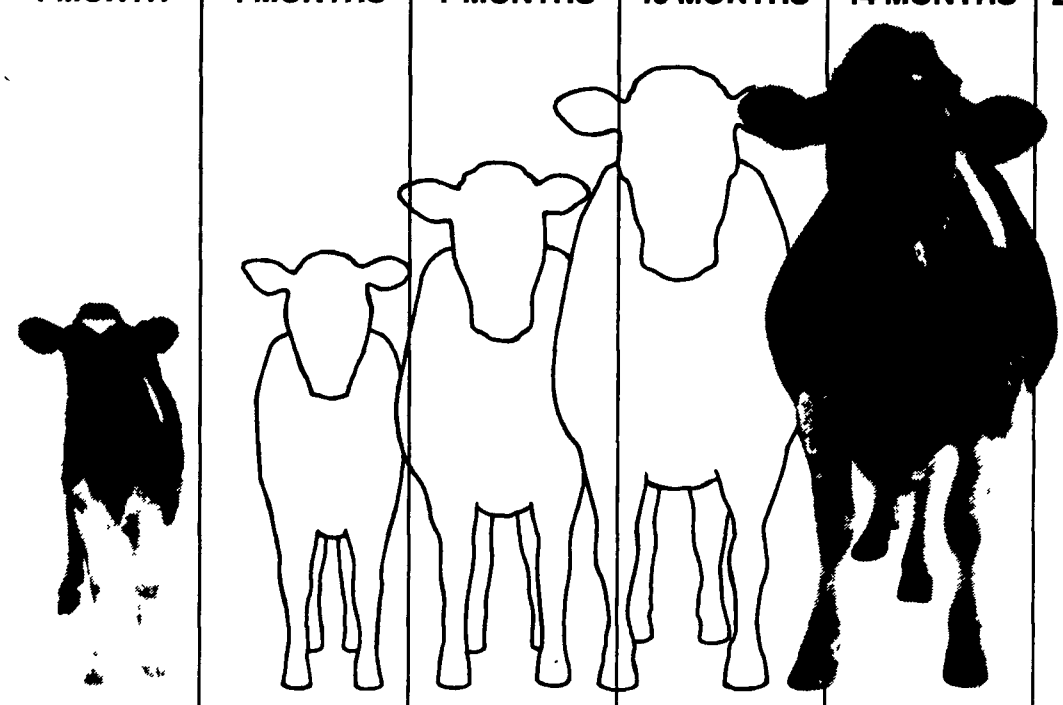
EXTRA PROFITABLE WAY TO FEED CALVES

1 MONTH | 4 MONTHS | 7 MONTHS | 10 MONTHS | 14 MONTHS | 20 MONTHS



Freshen faster with new Agway Gro:Right. ™

Every calf you raise costs about $60 a month for forage and labor. So if you could breed them at 14 months (6 months earlier than average), they'd freshen at 24 months and you'd save $360 on each calf. Not to mention the profits from 6 extra months of milking.

New Agway Gro:Right Complete Calf Feed can help you do that. It's an improved version of our Total Calf Ration, the brand Northeastern farmers have been using since 1976 to maximize calf-raising efficiency. We've added milk protein and B vitamin complex for rapid growth and efficient energy usage. So calves raised on Agway Complete Calf reach breeding weight in 14 months and join the milking string in 24 months.

Save hundreds, even thousands of dollars down the road. For more information, contact your Agway Store or Farm Enterprise Salesperson.

CALF-tel COMFORT HUTCHES

Keep Calves Healthy In All Kinds of Weather

You can stop worrying about your calves' health when the weather changes with Calf-tel™ Comfort hutches. No other hutches provide a draft-free, dry environment without big swings in temperature as well as Calf-tel™

Fall's daytime heat and nighttime chills are regulated by the hutches' thermomolded, opaque material. It eliminates the "greenhouse effect," which can cause intolerable heat on hot days, and moisture problems on cold days, especially in the winter

Bedding stays dry thanks to the offset entry. The Calf-tel™ Deluxe model features a side access door with an inside feeding station. This allows for quick feeding without spoilage or spilling

Excess moisture in the winter is removed through the ridge top ventilation system Warm climate models have a fully open front, and a rear vent door.

Calf-tel™ hutches can help you beat the weather when it comes to raising healthy, comfortable calves

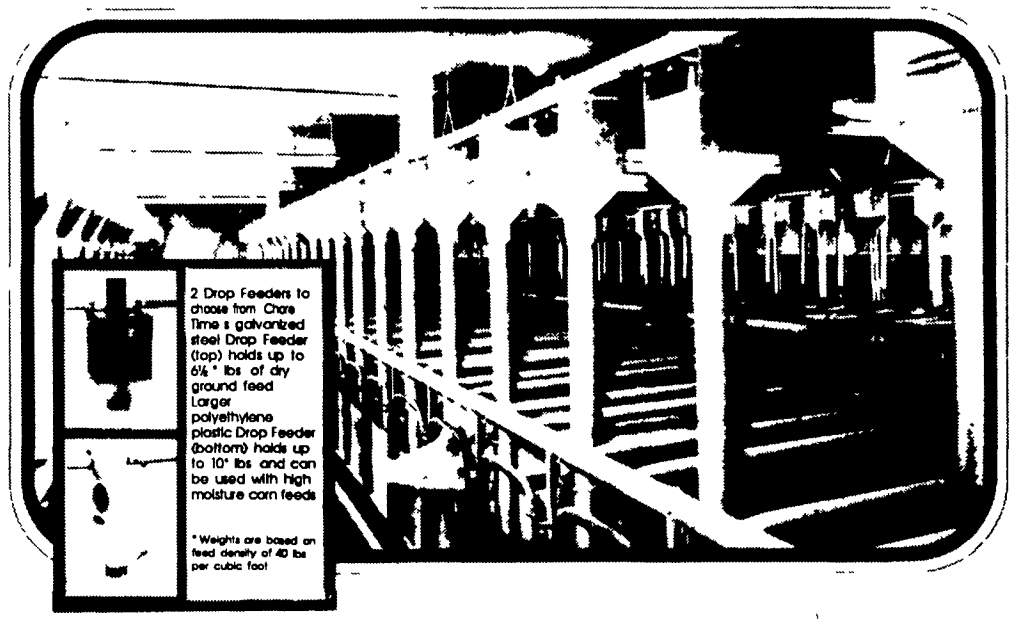
CHORE-TIME
sow feeding system

CHORE-TIME®

Take The Hustle And Bustle Out Of Sow Feeding



2 Drop Feeders to choose from Chore Time s galvanized steel Drop Feeder (top) holds up to 6¼ * lbs of dry ground feed
Larger polyethylene plastic Drop Feeder (bottom) holds up to 10* lbs and can be used with high moisture corn feeds
* Weights are based on feed density of 40 lbs per cubic foot

- Saves Labor. No more hand feeding. Each time you feed, trip one lever to feed all sows at once. By using an optional time clock and automatic tripper, you can feed your sows - without being there.
- Saves Feed. With hand feeding, there's a natural tendency to over feed. This system dispenses an accurate, controlled amount each time to each sow Feeding sows based on litter size during farrowing can also help you to realize additonal feed savings.
- Bigger, Healthier Litters. Whether you're feeding sows during gestation or farrowing. Chore-Time's Sow Feeding System allows you to control the amount of feed they consume - keeping your sows in better condition The system also can eliminate feeding stress caused by hand feeding. The result: an extra 2 pigs per sow per year
- Longer Sow Productive Life. Keeping sows in better condition means keeping them longer to get more litters.
- Longer Equipment Life. Each sow eats peacefully, so you can eliminate fighting and wear and tear on equipment.

Reiff, Quanbeck Take Titles At Solanco Sheep Show

BY PAT PURCELL

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster) — It was a real heavyweight bout in the market lamb showring at the Solanco Fair Wednesday afternoon as the young exhibitors vied for the eye of the judge during the market lamb competition.

Debbie Seibert, vocational-agricultural teacher from Manheim, judged the youth sheep show and also the fitting and showmanship competition. Seibert eyed the heavyweight market lamb animals for a long time before making her final placements.

When the sawdust settled from the parade of champions from the lighweight, middleweight and heavyweight classes, the two heavyweight champions were center ring.

From Strasburg it was Lyndon Reiff's Hampshire wearing the he grand champion rosette. Heidi Quanbeck's Suffolk, which placed second in its class, was awarded the reserve grand championship.

Ted Herr was named champion fitter and Donna MacCauley was named champion showman.

Results of the show:

The Solanco Fair grand champion market lamb honor went to the Hampshire owned by Lyndon Reiff from Strasburg.

Four Counties Take Championships In Southwest 4-H District Dairy Show

BY BETH N. GRAY
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD — Championships were shared by four counties as more than 200 head of six breeds competed here in the Southwest District 4-H Dairy Show Sept. 3 and sought the right to compete in the State Junior Dairy Show at Harrisburg Sept. 26.

In the largest event with nearly 75 head entering the ring, Globe-Run Sexy Darlene, a four-year-old sired by Ocean-View Sexation, captured the grand champion Holstein prize for owner John Andrew Foster, III of Petersburg, Huntingdon County. The cow was handled by fellow 4-H'er Kara Tussey of Huntingdon since Foster was playing football for his high school on show day.

"She's a tremendous cow to start the class," said Judge Thomas Dum III, Perry County Holstein breeder, when he first placed the entry. "You like her angularity and dairyness throughout. There's so much bloom about her." She was Dum's choice for senior champion and tripled her winnings as she was named best bred and owned animal in the Holstein show.

In close contention for the top prize was Becky Mohr of Bakers Summit, Bedford County, with Jimita Sexy Liaha, an aged cow that Mohr had shown to the grand championship in her own county fair. "I really appreciate this cow's dairiness and openness." Dum said of this daughter, too, of Ocean-View Sexation. "I like the way she handles her hind legs." Dum gave the cow reserve grand championships.

William Mosholder of Rockwood, Somerset County, exhibited Mossys Chief Mark Fancy-ET, an intermediate yearling daughter of Walkway Chief Mark, to the junior championship, while Jarrodd Toy of Kittanning, Armstrong County, got the judge's nod for reserve junior champion with his senior calf, Clayholm Counselor Cortney, a daughter of Hanoverhill Counselor-ET. The junior selections received spontaneous applause from the crowd.

Bedford countian Brandon Snider of New Enterprise earned the top prize in Guernsey judging as he showed Sniders Fayvors Gina, a senior two-year-old dry of Joseph and Susan Donches, used nine of her 30 ewes to compete at the show. A senior at Manheim Central, Carey named her winner Helium, "because he sounds like a helium balloon when he baas." Likewise Satin was named because her neck feels like satin when stroked.

Jeff Martin, a Garden Spot senior who has showed sheep since the third grade, took the reserve grand champion with his ram, Rambo. He is the son of John and Marilyn Martin, East Earl, where they have 45 sheep.

The reserve champion ewe is owned by Michelle Kerdman, a junior at Manheim Central who has been showing for two years. The daughter of Barbara and Jules Kerdman, saidn her now white ewe, Whitney, was completely black when born.

Lynn Crills took the grand champion trophy for his showmanship and Chad Folker, New Holland, was named reserve.

Prepare Bins Now For Storage

NEWARK, DE — Now that the 1988 grain harvest season has arrived, it is time to prepare bins for on-farm grain storage to discourage insect infestations.

Insects can feed directly on grain, causing reduced germination, loss of grain weight and nutrients, and grain shrinkage, deterioration and contamination. This damage results in lower market grades, poor feed quality and grain spoilage. So it's important to take measures to minimize losses due to insect pests, says Joanne Whalen, University of Delaware Extension pest management specialist.

The first factor to consider is grain moisture. In general, newly harvested grain is at the optimum temperature and moisture for insect development, so high-moisture grain should never be stored, Whalen says. When possible, grains should be stored at the following moisture contents: corn-- 13 percent; soybeans-- 11 percent; small grains-- 12 percent.

Since insect infestations originate in areas within and/or around the bins where litter has accumulated, basic sanitation measures will go a long way toward reducing losses from insects, says the pest management specialist. "Be sure to clean bins and the area outside the bin before adding newly harvested grains," he said.

"Avoid placing new grain on top of old grain. If this is not possible, fumigate or heat the old grain to 130 degrees Fahrenheit since surface sprays will not give adequate control."

After cleaning the bins, consider spraying the walls, ceiling and floor with a residual insecticide. "Apply sprays at least two weeks before storing the grain and be sure to spray cracks and corners where grain tends to accumulate," Whalen said. Materials that can be used to treat empty bins include Reldan, Methoxychlor, Melathion or Pyrethrins plus PBO.

Once the bin area has been cleaned and sprayed, a grain protectant spray should be applied at the base of the elevator auger as grain goes into the bin, advises Whalen. Then apply a protectant layer on the surface of the grain when the bin is full.

Each time the surface area is disturbed, be sure to re-treat it with a protectant, Whalen says. The following materials can be used as grain protectants: Actellic- corn and sorghum; Malathion- small grains, corn and sorghum; Reldan- small grains and sorghum; Dipel- the only material registered for soybeans.

Dynamite Sale At Autumn Harvest Classic III

BY
GINGER SECRIST MYERS
Adams Co. Correspondent

GETTYSBURG (Adams) — Late summer rains and an upward surge in market prices lit the fuse for a dynamite sale at the Autumn Harvest Classic III Polled Hereford Sale held last Saturday at Spring Bottom Polled Hereford Farm, Frank and Becky Darcey, Fairfield. The sale grossed $63,150 with the following breakdowns: 1 embryo selling for $3,450, 2 bulls averaging $1,675, and 45 females averaging $1,252. The overall average on the 48 lots was $1,360.

This was the third edition of this nationally ranked sale which annually features premier breeding stock from Penn State University, University Park, Spring Bottom Farm, Fairfield, Flat Stone Lick Farm, Marianne, and Keith and Linda Rooker, Uniontown, all from Pennsylvania. Though the sale was almost cancelled this year due to the drought, rapid-fire bidding on every lot reflected the growing strength of the market as producers gear up for even high prices anticipated for next spring.

The top selling consignment of the sale never walked through the ring. John Wright and Son, Wyoming, paid $3,450 for an unborn embryo due January 1, 1989. The embryo is the result of mating SBF Royal Gypsy, the 1985 Denver Champion Female, to Raceway, the 1988 Denver Champion. Gypsy is now ranked #17 on the Gold Trophy List and every one of her offspring that has been shown has won SOP points or banners.

The high selling female was KLR Prophets Delite born May 8, 1987 and consigned by Keith and Linda Rooker. This fancy heifer sold for $2,000 to ICS Farm, Williamstown, Vermont. She was Champion Heifer at the Keystown Classic, the Mason-Dixon Show, and the Junior Champion at the State Preview Show this summer. A Prophet daughter out of a Declaration cow, Delite, sold mated to Wallstreet. She left behind at the Rookers 20 good eggs from flushes to TOP MSU Knight Ryder and NV Precedence.

Top selling male at the sale sold for $2,500 to John and Janet Humphreyh, Patton. SBF Royal Drum Major was consigned by Trails End Ranch and Spring Bottom Farm. A mature breeding bull, he was sired by TCF Marathon Man and out of SBF Royal Cheer.

Top volume buyer at the sale was Sam Hunter, Smithsburg, Maryland. He purchased seven head for $8,750.

It also has good field tolerance to other prevalent races.

9442 You're looking at the new yield leader among mid-Group IV soybean varieties. 9442 is a variety with strong emergence, excellent standability, and good field tolerance to Phytophthora Root Rot. It produces moderately branching plants that perform well in both wide or narrow rows. Put your orders in early for this top variety. Supply will go fast.

Arrowsmith, Nolan Capture Premier Awards At Solanco Colored Breeds Show

BY PAT PURCELL

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster) — The 39th annual Southern Lancaster County Community Fair officially opened on Wednesday September 14 with made-to-order beautiful weather. Which made it a perfect day for the nearly 100 entries in the Colored Breeds Dairy show which kicked-off the livestock competition at 10 a.m.

Jersey

Bill Arrowsmith took home the silver in the form of two silver plates awarded the Arrowsmith's for both premier breeder and exhibitor of Solanco's jersey show. Five of the six champions in that breed were shown by one of the Arrowsmiths.

Junior champion Jersey was Rockland Brave Lea Polly a junior yearling owned by Tom Arrowsmith of Peach Bottom and Patty and Elizabeth Jenkins of Toughkenamon. Tim Ulrich exhibited the reserve junior champion, Valley-U Legend Dixie a senior yearling.

Show judge Dean Daubert was quite impressed with the champion Jerseys he selected. Both aged cows were well-balanced, possessed a tremendous mammary system and had strong feet and legs. It was Hillacres Surville May, best uddered in her 5-years-and-over class, which took the grand champion Jersey rosette for Tom Arrowsmith. Helen Arrowsmith, Tom's sister captured the reserve grand championship in the Jersey breed with Hillacres Master Victoria, out of the same class as the grand champion. Both Arrowsmiths also took the grand and reserve titles in the junior division.

Ayrshire

Junior champion and the reserve grand champion in the junior division was oned by Heather Becker and bred by David Harnish. GR Narvon Valley's Chmp Garland. Show judge Dean Daubert liked the stylishness, balance and strength in this intermediate heifer. Reserve junior champion went to Pinelane Amigo Sugarberry exhibited by Warren Schmuck.

Grand champion of the junior division and reserve grand in the open class went to Cochranville's Craig Nolan. His 2-year-old, Dreamnol Bell Ringing Evalyn showed an advantage in its class in dairyness with a capacious mammary system. Evalyn earned best udder in the class.

Grand champion in the open class went to Robert and Sharon Nolan's 4-year-old, Porterdale Special Show, a tremendous cow with a well attached fore and rear udder, judged best udder in her class.

Robert and Sharon Nolan received both premier breeder and exhibitor awards in the Ayrshire class.

Guernsey

Steve Wagner's intermediate calf, Bo Joy Lyonell Maxine took the junior championship in the Guernsey breed and his junior calf, Willows Hallmark Priscilla palced in the reserve spot.

It was Steve's younger brother who edged him out of the grand title. Scott's 3-year-old, Bo Joy Rev Robin, bred by parents, Robert and Joyce Wagner, which captured the grand championship of the Solanco Fair Guernsey show. Judge Daubert admired the correct teat placement on Robin and the strength in rear and fore udder attachment naming her the best udder in her class.

Reserve grand went to another Bo-Joy Farm bred animal, Steve's 2-year-old, Bo Joy Rev. Molly.

The Wagner's swept the Brown Swiss competition. Scott's junior calf, Regal Robin Rhoda, earned the junior championship. Father and son teamed up for the grand and reserve grand titles. Bob and Joyce Wagner's 2-year-old, Bo Joy Improver Robbi took the grand honors and in the reserve spot was Steve's Marty L. Toto.

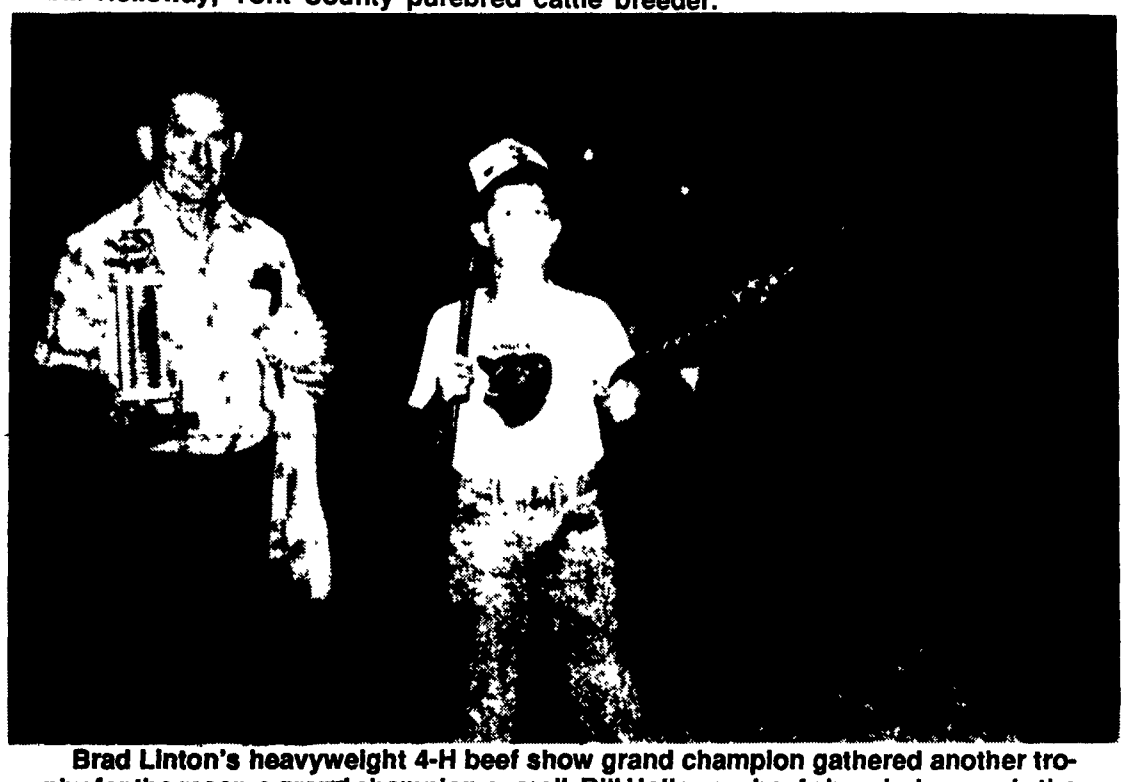
Wenger, Rohrer Named Solanco Fair Grand Champions

BY PAT PURCELL

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster) — The new bleachers and fences at the livestock show tent of the Southern Lancaster County Fair were much appreciated by the large crowd which continued to grow throughout Thursday evening beginning with the market hog show and culminating with the beef show.

Ashley Wenger of New Providence, with the help of his brother Kyle, overcame some not so tough competition but meaty, trim, lean, muscled competition with his "cutable" 250-pound mixed breed hog to take the fair grand championship. In the reserve spot was Peach Bottom's Denny Mellot with his exceptionally well-muscled spotted Poland. It was the first grand championship for both.

Tiffany Rohrer of Nottingham and "Jefferson", her 1260-pound purebred Angus, captured the FFA grand champion title and the overall grand championship in the Southern Lancaster County Fair beef show. Presenting the award is beef show judge, Bill Holloway, York County purebred cattle breeder.



Brad Linton's heavyweight 4-H beef show grand champion gathered another trophy for the reserve grand champion overall. Bill Holloway, beef show judge, made the presentation.

Denny Mellott of Peach Bottom picked up his first reserve grand championship trophy for his spotted Poland at the Solanco Fair hog show.

The Pennsylvania Angus Queen, Tiffany Rohrer of Nottingham brought another crown to her collection Thursday evening when she earned grand champion overall of the beef show.

Bill Holloway, show judge, a York County purebred beef breeder, was impressed with the muscling, firmness and smoothness of this 1260-pound purebred Angus Bobbie White of Lincoln University is the breeder of "Jefferson" and it was the first grand championship for grand championship for at the Solanco fair for Tiffany. This was Tiffany's Oxford FFA project. She is a freshman at the University of Delaware.

Brad Linton's 4-H grand champion took the reserve grand overall.

Showmanship winners in the hog show were Mike Phillips in the junior division and in the senior division Steve Wagner. In the beef class Gregg Close took the junior division and Tiffany Rohrer took the senior competition.

Seed Company Makes Special Day To Visit Customers

DeKALB, IL. — The needs of American farmers are constantly changing. Countless studies are conducted every year to identify the latest trends in agriculture, but at least one company still believes the best way to learn about the farmer's needs is to go face to face and listen to them.

On August 17, employees of DeKalb-Pfizer Genetics spent their day doing just that. More than 600 employees from 50 locations across the United States participated in what the company designated as its National Call Day. The employees joined the company's 7,000 dealers in calling on customers all over the country to hear farmers discuss this year's crop, plans for next year, and the changing role of seed companies and other agribusinesses.

"It's important for businesses to get close to its customers and to understand their changing needs," says Byron Ford, the company's Senior Vice President of Marketing. "Consumer package goods companies have always realized the need to get close to their customers and as a result have been better able to serve those who buy their products. These companies know the importance of understanding their customers. This is especially important now in agriculture."

"Customers do us a favor when they let us make sales calls," adds company President Kent Schulze. "It's very beneficial because employees tend to get involved in their particular jobs, and it becomes easy to lose sight of why we're in business. National Call Day helps to remind us that we're in business to serve the farmer."

This is the second National Call Day to take place at DeKalb-Pfizer. Last November 17 was the first, and due to its wide acceptance by both employees and farmers, a national managers meeting that focused primarily on customer orientation took place in July and a second National Call Day was announced at the meeting. As a follow-up to Call Day, employees invited the farmers that they visited to a National Open House which will take place in November at the DeKalb-Pfizer facility where they work.

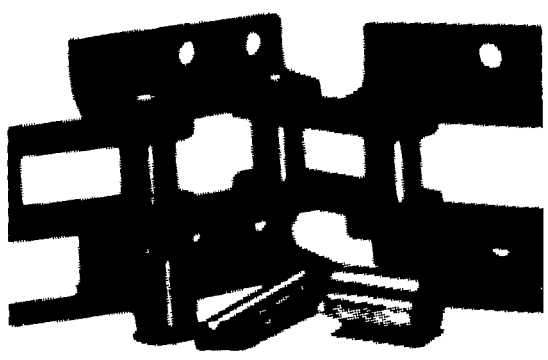
FASTER FEEDING

. . . with the strength and power of Goliath® II, the new forage unloader from Harvestore Systems

Here's a rugged machine that keeps working even in tough feeds.

Goliath II has bigger cutter arm sprockets for smoother chain action, longer wear. The chain features bigger, more aggressive cutter hooks and stainless steel bushings that last. Thanks to these improvements, 30 percent more torque can be applied to Goliath II's cutter arm, powering it through hard spots and tough forage such as grass haylage to keep feeding chores on schedule.



Stainless steel bushings last up to 75 percent longer

Want faster feeding from your Harvestore forage structure? That's a job for Goliath II—the new giant of the feedroom. Call your authorized, independent Harvestore system dealer to find out more.

Double Identity: Teacher In School, Farmer Out

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

GLEN ROCK — Pat White leads a double life.

For about a third of the year, he is computer coordinator for the York Suburban School District. But during the bulk of his time, when not supervising the school district's data processing systems, White is a farmer.

Wholesale vegetable production is his specialty, marketed primarily through local supermarkets of the regional Weis chain. White and his wife Barb also retail bedding plants, ornamentals, hanging baskets, and offer pick-your-own strawberries.

A "city boy," White's early exposure to horticulture came in the rows of his grandfather's large garden, where the family often worked together.

"I always enjoyed gardening; but I had no intention of going into it as a profession," he recalls.

Nor had White planned a teaching career. His undergraduate studies at Juniatia were aimed at research in chemistry or oceanography. Summers, he worked with youth camps and playground programs.

Just days before his college graduation, White traveled to the University of Pittsburgh and enrolled for a teaching major. The summer jobs with youngsters had convinced him a lively classroom offered more challenge than isolation in a lab full of test tubes. By 1974, White greeted his first students at Dallastown Middle School, teaching a schedule split between math and science.

White's fondness for growing things had been reinforced through his college years by work on a friend's farm. During spare time in his first teaching year, the White's often left their apartment in search of land.

Their search ended on a few acres near Felton. With rows of strawberry plants in the ground, along with a few Angus cattle and feeder pigs in the barn, White was in the farming business.

"I made the mistake in 1977 of trying to expand with more cows and hogs," relates White. "And I learned the economics; there were just not enough numbers to make it feasible."

Undaunted, White considered alternative crops for the larger farm they had purchased near Glen Rock... A "truck patch" type operation proved more economically feasible than livestock.

Again, strawberries went in the ground, initially a half-acre intended for wholesale, retail and U-pick customers. On a bit of a gamble, the White's planted - by hand - 4,000 cabbage seedlings. Though he had no guarantee of a market, White had talked with managers at the Weis Markets.

"They had no idea what we'd produce, but their philosophy is to buy as much locally as is possible. As soon as a few heads of cabbage were ready, we went to the produce managers," says White of that early marketing strategy.

"Weis has been wonderful to work with; we pick our produce in the morning and take it to them right away," White adds in praise of the supermarket firm. His wholesaling is almost exclusively with Weis, except for a few "Ma and Pa" grocery stores.

From those early strawberry and cabbage harvests, production has expanded to include a wide range of popular fresh produce items. New crops are often tried on a small scale, testing the waters of consumer demand and economic return.

"We tried Indian corn this year; it was a bad season for that," laments White of the summer's drought and intense heat. Weather-induced problems of poor germination and spotty pollination cut both yield and quality of the popular decorative ears of colored corn.

Field-grown chrysanthemums, another new venture this season, are just beginning to show bloom color on tidy mounds of foliage. Some plants have been potted for sale, but a larger portion of the crop is planned for dig-your-own customers.

While White's raspberry crop showed early promise, blazing heat literally dried the berries on their jagged stems. Pumpkin and gourd vines also suffered with the heat extremes. To prevent heat devastation of his potted ornamental trees and shrubs, White moved many of the landscaping items into the shade of the woodlot behind their home.

Tomatoes, drip irrigated, and cantaloupes grown under plastic mulch, proved to be the most bountiful irrigation equipment, and lack of volume water storage, White limits the drip-system watering to a few higher-value crops.

Last year's experimental crop, canary melons, also happily basked in the summer's warmth. These bright-yellow, football-shaped melons, with a firm, sweet, pale green flesh, are most commonly raised in Texas and other southern states. White read about them in a horticulture magazine, though they would offer customers something different, and planted just a small number last year.

Not certain how they'd be received, he gave many away as taste-test samples. Results were positive, and there was no problem marketing this year's crop of canaries.

Though their season is pretty much past, Pat and Josh search out a few leftover canary melons. The football-shaped fruits have a firm, sweet flesh of delicate, pale green color.

Pruning raspberries is a job Pat White fits in between other planting, harvest, wholesaling, retailing, and overseeing a school district's computer operations.

Everyone at the White family pitches in to help on the busiest days of spring plant sales. With Pat at the Christmas tree and ornamental display area are his wife Barb, their children Josh, Gretchen and Maddie, plus a couple of loveable family pets.

White's first double-layer poly greenhouse was purchased several years ago through a Lancaster Farming ad, an 8-x-50-footer for starting truck patch transplants. Two wider houses have replaced that first, with every square inch of space filled in the spring months.

Greenhouse startup is mid-February, since White figures heat costs are prohibitive before that date. Floral bedding plants and hanging baskets comprise a healthy percentage of the growing demand for decorative plants.

The largest single greenhouse crop, though, is geraniums. In fact, the White's crop of cutting and seed started geraniums were sold out by the first of May. By mid-June, greenhouse stock is usually sold out and the houses readied for replacement poly covering, if necessary.

Customer numbers continue to climb, despire White's sole advertising being a sign at the end of the gravel lane.

"We rely on word-of-mouth and offering good prices, not gimmicks of any kind. A lot of our bus-

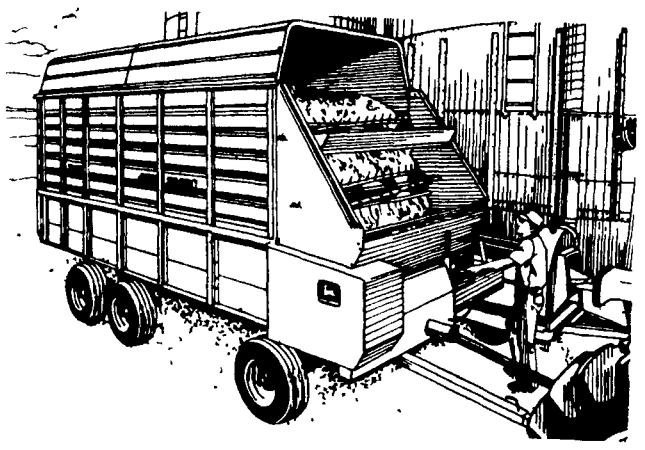
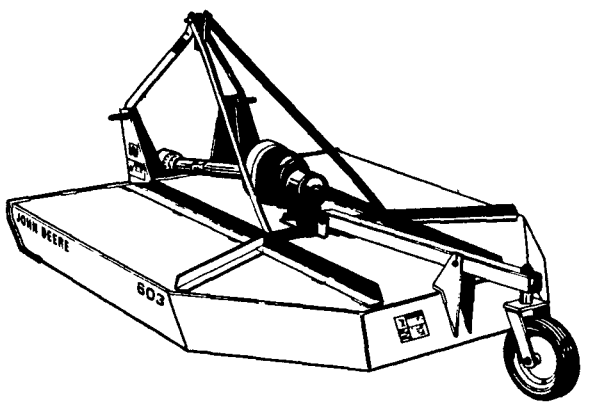
HAVE IT YOUR WAY TO HAUL IT YOUR WAY



■ No matter what you're hauling, you'll want strong, John Deere wagon gear underneath for good tracking with less swaying. Ratings from 7 to 14 tons.

■ For dependable forage hauling, top that wagon with a John Deere forage box. With steel construction and a fast unloading system. Stop in for the best hauling choice.

LIGHT-DUTY ROTARY CUTTERS LIGHT MAINLY ON THE PRICE



■ The 4-foot 403, 5-foot 503 and new 6-foot 603 are called "light-duty" rotary cutters. And they are economical. But they're also John Deere quality all through — with plenty of steel in the body, rugged drive components, and many standard features.

■ Come on in and weigh the advantages.

AMT™ 600. WHEN YOU'VE GOT WORK TO DO.

■ All Materials Transport gives you true hauling ability. Carry up to 600 pounds (on level ground) in 48- by 42- by 11-inch box. Then, dump the load.

■ Get five-wheel stability and four-wheel drive. The 341 cc engine gives you a towing capacity of 1000 pounds. The variable-speed transmission gives you a top speed of 20 mph, plus reverse.

iness is repeat customers, said White.

White sees the bedding plant and vegetable production business as a positive one for the future. Marketing can be handled in several ways and population growth in the area keeps boosting demand.

"Vegetable prices keep a little better pace with the cost of living," believes this grower. "When we had hogs, they were selling for less ten years later than they were when we first started raising them."

The market for trees, shrubs and specimen landscaping items is also on an upswing. In fact, homeowner preference for "instant landscaping" has demand outstripping their supply of some ornamentals.

Many species of landscaping plants are not locally grown for the commercial market. The sandy soils and more favorable temperatures of Virginia and the Delmarva area provide better growing conditions for nursery stock. Rhododendrons are shipped East from as far away as Oregon. With supplies of some species extremely tight, White must order certain high-demand ornamentals a year in advance.

Rounding out retail sales by seasons is the White family's Christmas tree business. Although White has been handling trees for several years, the crop this year will be from the tree farm they recently purchased in Juniata County. Its 60,000 trees range from seedlings to those of harvest size, mainly of the Scotch Pine and Douglas Fir varieties.

White's father, Robert, a retired high school guidance counselor, is his son's "hired hand." The heaviest workload crunch for these growers comes during the seed planting and transplant weeks of spring.

Barb assists with greenhouse sales and strawberry harvest. Nine-year-old Josh is developing a critical eye for produce, though he admits to not eating every type of vegetable he helps pick. Gretchen, 5, and Maddie, 3, are often on hand to help greet customers. White encourages their interest and help, without stifling their enthusiasm with too many responsibilities.

His teaching skills prove helpful in advising customers on plant care and varieties. And, White taps his chemistry background to keep us with industry technology and the chemical needs of his numerous crops.

Sometime in the future, Pat White hopes to farm full-time.

"I can't even pinpoint a real 'why;' it's being outside, watching things grow, the variety of activities, and the challenge of beating Mother Mature," he reflects on his love of agriculture. "I really like the wholesale market. It's worked well and offers us greater convenience."

BACK TO SCHOOL

It seems like many years ago since I made that end of summer emotional adjustment to go "back to school". However, it was only two autumns ago that I was treking around Penn State campus in an effort to complete my master's degree. Now that school has started, I am reminded of those back-to-school feelings.

Whether formally or informally, each of us can still be a student. Each of us has many opportunities to continue to learn and to grow, even if it is not in a professional setting. One of the demands of being in Extension is the need to keep up-to-date, to keep abreast of the changes that occur in our field. And that requires in-service training, reading, and practicing new skills ourselves.

If you are envious of the students who are returning to school this fall, take this opportunity to look around you and see what you can learn this fall semester! You do not need to be in a formal setting to learn, and actually many of us prefer in less formal settings in which to study. Here are some ideas to get you started:

* Read an autobiography of someone you would like to know more about.
* Study your family geneology.
* Take an Extension workshop, community college class, or attend a presentation at the library or historical society.
* Visit a local spot that you have never visited. There are many tourist spots that we overlook because we have lived nearby them for years. See what those new to your area visit.
* Try a new recipe, a new food, or a new restaurant.
* Introduce yourself to a new neighbor, church member or co-worker and spend this fall semester getting to know him or her.
* Challenge yourself to finish a project you started years ago. There probably is something new that you could learn about that project.

The possibilities for learning are endless! The term "professional student" was coined years ago to describe students who seemed to go from one school or degree to another without stopping; making a profession out of being a student. However, I think that term could apply to all of us. Each day, each season, can be a personal challenge to continue to learn, formally or informally.

So as that yellow school bus rounds the bend this week, and children and teens set off on their new learning ventures, why not start out on one of your own?

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Windowsills. Those I remember from my girlhood home were never wide enough.

Then came marriage. And, along with other new things in my life, such as cows in the meadow (and the corn) and manure-caked shoes under the table, came a small architectural treasure in this old farmhouse: windowsills.

Now this old house feature is increasingly rare in newer ones. Most of the time, they're a part of this house that I take for granted. Recently it occurred to me how lost I'd be without their handy space, especially as nights grow cooler and morning mist hangs a white veil over the pastures predicting that the house plants must soon come back inside.

In our basement are the classic foot-deep sills, offering wonderful haven for miscellaneous tools, extra barn hats, craft supplies, and house cats aiming to keep track of what's happening outside. Upper floors of the house are equipped with six-inch sills, still plenty adequate for all sorts of handy uses.

Sills in the kitchen, naturally, are kept busiest. Two styrofoam flats full of tomatoes and a small basket of spindly, bright red hot peppers currently keep company on the "ripening" windowsill behind the kitchen counter.

August featured mouth-watering peaches and fragrant cantaloupes, tempting us to snack each time we passed. Apples will soon replace the tomatoes, a handy, easy answer to the "what's here to eat?" stampede which hits between school and suppertime.

Behind the kitchen sink is a bouquet windowsill. At least one, sometimes two, small vases of cut flowers brighten my sink time with their beauty. From June through heavy frost, dainty, pastel roses hold center stage between vegetable brushes and the container of heavy-duty, anti-grease, hand cleaner. (This stuff loosens the layers of oil, grease and barn residue on their hands, effectively transferring it to the sink and towels.)

A forgotten aerosol can of bug spray turned up last week, hiding on a living room windowsill behind the curtain ruffle. This windowsill is strategically located behind the sofa, where the Farmer generally catches a pre-bedtime nap in front of the TV. Flies pestering during evening naptime can expect to get zapped from his windowsill weapon repository.

On yet another nearby sill waits a supply of drink coasters, protection for wooden tables from dripping glasses. Except that no one uses them anyway, grabbing instead the handiest cow-related magazine as a dripcatcher. Few are the magazines in the living room whose covers do not bear telltale rings of chocolate milk or iced tea.

Which frees up the coasters for use with the most predominant residents of all our windowsills - houseplants. Summered outside, the ferns, small palms, spider and jade plants provided seasonal destruction derby material for the kittens. Small insects attracted to their foliage regularly provide a fast-food stop to five half-grown chickens, making the daily trek from the old barn to the perennial border.

Meanwhile, the plants have swelled in size, sent out long runners, grown new branches and accumulated spider webs and dust. Pruning and a hose are often necessary for sprucing up the windowsill regulars for return to their "winter-sill" location.

African violets and cacti, the tall, leathery spikes of snake planted, and trailing philodendron are others given sill space with appropriate light, shade or sunshine. Those which bloom during winter's dreariest months get star billing in center-stage behind the sink.

Never is there enough sill space at this season. We need more windows or wider sills.

Get rid of some of the plants, you say?

Let's not ge radical.

U.S. And New Zealand Battle Import Policy

DENVER, Colo. — New Zealand officials are protesting the newly-implemented import regulations on live sheep, calling them overly stringent. The U.S. sheep industry strongly supported the regulations, which were implemented in June after USDA Animal & Plant Health Inspection Service held public hearings and a comment period.

The New Zealand government has requested consultations with the U.S. General Agreement on Tariffs (GATT). They called the regulations non-tariff barriers, and cited three specific regulations including those mandating certified-free status on tuberculosis and brucellosis, testing for the disease akabane, and the 30-day quarantine period for sheep imported to the United States. New Zealand argues the akabane requirement is unnecessary since Akabane has not been found in New Zealand, and that a 30-day isolation period is not needed since shipping time provides an adequate incubation period.

National Wool Growers Association representatives testified earlier in the year in favor of strong regulations to protect the domestic sheep industry from the potential of disease introduction with imported sheep. "We feel these regulations are a minimum of what is acceptable to producers," said James G. Butler, Executive Director of the National Wool Growers Association. "The regulations address some very real concerns U.S. producers have expressed to NWGA and USDA, and provide adequate protection in an introduction of foreign animals into the domestic flock."

Dr. Billy Johnson, associate deputy administrator of APHIS's Veterinary Services, told the Bureau of National Affairs he believes the regulations will hold up as fair and reasonable.

Talks between the U.S. and New Zealand will probably begin in mid-September. If the consultations are unsuccessful, New Zealand could proceed with a full-fledged complaint.

Brown Bag Lunches That Will Send You Packing

It's always been a challenge to create school lunches kids will actually eat. Cookies and chips always seem to get snapped up, while snadwiches and fruit never make it out of the bag. Careful shopping can help make lunches both sweet and nutritious.

Lots of people—kids and adults—are choosing to "Brown Bag It" these days. Some carry lunches to control the quality and quantity of what they eat; others to cut costs, save time, or to cut calories. Besides, most people feel that a homemade lunch tastes better. Whatever the reason, the basis for most bag lunches is the sandwich.

A good lunch includes protein, fresh fruits or vegetables, bread and a beverage. Let's take a look at each of these. The only limit on sandwich combinations is your imagination and your refrigerator. Some of the suggestions may sound strange, but give them a try.

Protein

•Cheese: slice or grate; combine with pickles, nuts, onion or crushed pineapple.

•Nuts: try chopped walnuts and raisins with cream cheese.

•Peanut butter: in addition to the old standbys of jelly or honey, try raisins, sliced apple or banana, chopped prunes, Swiss cheese, lettuce and mayonaise.

•Egg: mix chopped, hard cooked egg with yogurt or mayonnaise. For variety, add one of the following: onion, celery, green pepper, raisins, grated carrot or zucchini, nuts, olives, grated cheese or chopped pecans.

•Fish: if you cook fish for dinner, cook enough for tomorrow's sandwiches. Mix with mayonnaise or tartar sauce. Add lettuce for color and extra nutrition.

•Meat: what did you have for dinner last night? Meatloaf? Ham? Chicken? Roast beef? Slice it and add a pickle, or chop it and mix with other chopped goodies...celery, fruit or other vegetables.

•Processed lunch meats (bologna, salami) are tasty and quick, however they are expensive, and can be high in fat and sodium.

A brown bag lunch does not have to mean a sandwich. In fact, lunch without a sandwich opens up many possibilities, one of which is less preparation. Try:

•cold, cooked meat such as a chicken leg or several slices of roast beef or pork.

•cubes of cheese and meat

•cold pizza

•yogurt-good by itself or mixed with cut up fruits or vegetables.

Fruits and Vegetables

Pack at least one fruit or vegetable, preferably fresh. Offer some of the less common fruits. Try switching from apples and oranges to strawberries, pears, cherries, grapes, orange sections, sliced pineapple, melon wedges, berries, plums and pears or grapes once in a while. For a change from carrot sticks try lettuce wedges, cherry tomatoes, cauliflower and florets or cucumber strips.

If you're sending canned fruit, drain off the sugary syrup and put the fruit in a plastic container.

Bread

Provides energy, vitamins and fiber. Use either whole grain bread or enriched white bread. For variety, try rolls, bagels or crackers.

Beverage

Milk is recommended. Fruit juice is fine, if the lunch contains some cheese or yogurt for calcium. Avoid soda and high sugar drinks.

Snacks or Desserts

Try to keep them simple and low in sugar and fat. Some possibilities could be fresh fruit, oatmeal cookies, sunflower or pumpkin seeds, unsalted popcorn or peanuts.

A surprise can brighten your child's or your spouse's day. A note that says, "I love you," a short poem or a funny picture will certainly be a hit.

(Turn to Page B8)

Bored with the same old lunch? Try cream cheese on a bagel. Top with sliced apples and sprinkle with raisins, nuts and dates.

Featured Recipe

Darlene Burkholder, Alburtis, goes whole hog over pork- the other white meat.

"Pork has come a long way in recent years," she said, "It's lean and nutritions."

She believes that cooks unaccustomed to the new breed of pork often over cook it and destroy its natural flavor.

As the National Pork Women Council Director, a fulltime nurse and the wife of Stephen Burkholder who was named the PA Pork All-American, Darlene has a file full of fresh ideas for pork.

If you'd like to learn how you can win a barbecue apron through the exciting pork promotion that she has planned, read page B16.

In the meantime, try her favorite pork recipe.

Bavarian Pork Dinner

2 cups cubed red potatoes
¼ cup water
1 small onion
1 can 16 ounces washed/drained sauerkraut
2 pound boneless loin roast
1 medium apple (cored and thinly diced)
2 tablespoons packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon caraway seed
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup apple juice

Browning Agents:

2 tablespoons worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon dried parsley flakes
⅛ teaspoon minced garlic
⅛ teaspoon lemon pepper

In large floured cooking bag, combine potatoes, onion rings, and water. Microwave at high for 7 minutes or until potatoes 'stick' done. During this, rub the exterior of the roast with the mixture for browning. To the potatoe/onion mixture, combine sauerkraut, brown sugar, lemon juice, diced apples, and caraway seed. Top with pork loin and close cooking bag, venting the tied end. Microwave at 30% power for 20-25 minutes, inverting the roast at this time. Microwave roast at 30% power for another 20-25 minutes. At this time, add the apple juice, flour combination. Microwave at 30% power for 5-10 minutes, or with roast reaches 155 degrees. Allow standing time of approximately 10-15 minutes. Garnish with cored apples and parsley.

Laundry Basics For 100% Cotton Care

100% cotton has regained its popularity as a favorite fabric in light-weight and feminine dresses, easy-going pants, soft and sporty terrys and sturdy jeans. Cotton absorbs moisture and feels cool -- something the synthetic fibers cannot do. It is also durable, versatile, launders easily and does not pill or cling.

Adversely, cotton picks up spots and stains because of its absorbency. It has little resiliency or elasticity and wrinkles easily. However, you will find that many cotton garments have been given special treatments including wrinkle resistance, stretchability and soil and stain resistance.

The first step in laundering cottons is to read the care instructions on the label. Then sort items by separating white and colorfast garments from bright and dark shades. Also, separate the heavily soiled from the lightly soiled things and the sturdy cottons from loosely woven knits.

Treat spots and stains prior to laundering. The method will depend on the type of stain. However, many stains can be lifted by moistening the stain and rubbing it with a full strength liquid detergent on the wrong side of the fabric. Allow it to stand for about 15 minutes, rinse, and if stain has not disappeared, treat again. A regular wash setting can be used for sturdy fabrics. Select the delicate cycle for loosely woven knits. The water temperature used depends on the degree of soil and the colorfastness of the items being laundered. Use the amount of detergent recommended by the brand you prefer to use.

100% cotton can be safely bleached. Chlorine type bleach may be used on white items. An oxygen bleach is safe for colored cottons as well as all fabrics. A fabric softener will help improve the softness and comfort of cotton and also help to reduce wrinkling.

Tumble drying helps to maintain the softness of cotton. When drying, remove cottons while still moist and hang on hangers or lay flat to finish drying. This will help to reduce wrinkling and also the possible shrinkage of cotton knits. Most cottons can be ironed on a high temperature setting. Those treated for wrinkle-resistant may only need touch-up ironing on a medium setting.

Store It Right

It will soon be time for the seasonal switch of clothing and accessories. Simplify the task and go through closets and drawers room by room. Use one box to collect garments to be discarded or given away and another to hold items that need cleaning and repair.

Soil weakens fiber, so put everything away absolutely clean and dry.

Launder washables. Have nonwashables dry-cleaned. Hang garments. Place in garment bags or plastic bags. Fold items to be boxed; pack with tissue in between to reduce wrinkling. Sprinkle moth crystals or use moth balls when storing woolens.

Label boxes with contents for easy access. Keep sweaters and jackets handy for the first chill of fall. Store gloves, scarves and hats together.

Wash boots, shoes and handbags made of synthetic materials with a sudsy sponge. Rinse and dry. Use a special leather cleaner and polish on leather. Stuff boots, shoes and bags with paper to retain their shape. Store in boxes. Old socks make good protective shoebags.

With closets and drawers empty, it's a good time to freshen them. Wash, paint if necessary and devise new space dividers. Reline drawers with paper or vinyl. Now you're set to unpack and stock warm weather apparel and accessories.

National Dairy Board Research Scholarships Awarded

ARLINGTON — The National Dairy Board is sponsoring a series of $1,000 scholarships to interest more undergraduate students in dairy foods science careers.

"Biotechnology and bioengineering are propelling dairy food science into a whole new era," explains Dr. Tony Ernstrom, the Board's Senior Vice President for Product Research and Development, "and we need students to take up the challenge."

The scholarships are for qualifying junior and senior students enrolled in university programs that emphasize dairy food science.

The recipients are selected on the basis of— academic performance, commitment to a U.S. career in dairy food science, evidence of leadership ability, initiative, character and integrity.

Dr. Ernstrom said, "Recent surveys have indicated a declining number of college graduates trained in dairy food science. The Scholarship Program may help reverse the trends by encouraging more students to seek careers in the dairy processing industry."

This year's scholarship recipients include: South Dakota State University- Russell Buseman, Dan Duitscher, Michelle Rook, Gene Stegeman; University of Wisconsin-Madison- Natalie Lynn Stoer, Kathleen Maria Novak, James Steven Javenkoski; Utah State University- LaMar P. Jonson, Carl Sanders; Oregon State University- Sidney Kirtley; University of Vermont- Penny Lynn Dodds; University of Minnesota- Lori Jo Rusin; North Carolina State University- Reem Sidahmed; California Polytechnic State University- Lori D. Smith; Louisiana State University- Eric Werther, Cindy L. Guillot; Michigan State University- Donna M. Gross; Brigham Young University- Ramon Flores; Purdue University- Julie Ann Bennett; Cornell University- Tara Elizabeth Habig; University of Wisconsin-River Falls- Janet Klimek.

The National Dairy Promotion and Research Board, composed of 36 dairy farmers, was established by the Dairy and Tobacco Adjustment Act of 1983 to develop and administer a coordinated program of promotion, research, and nutrition education to strengthen the dairy industry position in the marketplace.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

Breakfast is an important part of a day's diet, but who has time for breakfast? You do, when you microwave a quick breakfast sandwich.

Make a nutritious topping the night before; spread on toasted bread or English muffin and microwave a few seconds to heat. Or make the whole thing in the morning. Either way, during the hectic morning hour, microwave cooking time is just a matter of minutes.

Directions for microwaving Oat and Honey Toast topping call for two microwave cooking steps. Both give a microwave time, but also say that the mixture should boil for a certain number of seconds. Your microwave may cook faster or slower than the time called for, but most important is that the mixture boil rapidly for the time indicated. Watch through the microwave door and keep track with the count-down of seconds on your microwave's digital timer. The time doesn't have to be absolutely exact in this recipe, but the mixture must boil enough or it won't thicken properly. You may see these kinds of directions in other recipes, like candies, jellies or frostings; those will have to be timed accurately.

Toppings for both Oat and Honey Toast and Swiss and Bacon Muffins may be made ahead and refrigerated. Both will thicken as they chill. Soften the oat and honey mixture by microwaving it 10 or 20 seconds. But, soften the cheese mixture by stirring vigorously with a fork — microwaving it may start to melt the cheese and that shouldn't happen until it's spread on the English muffin.

It would be convenient to spread the fillings on toast or English muffin the night before, but I'd suggest you do it right before eating — otherwise toast or muffin gets soggy. I discovered that the oat and honey mixture is great between graham crackers — those can be spread ahead and refrigerated for a sweet but nutritious snack.

Egg and Cheese Roll should be made and then eaten at once. But it won't slow you down much in the morning. It's a quick and easy recipe — basically an omlet for one, garnished with cheese and plenty of black pepper — which microwaves in about a minute. Cover it as directed with waxed paper to hold in some heat and promote even cooking. If you have time, cook the minimum time and let the egg stand, still covered, to finish cooking on its own. That way it will be done, yet not tough and rubbery from overcooking.

Oat And Honey Toast

¼ cup margarine or butter
¼ cup honey
½ cup quick oatmeal (not instant)
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon wheat germ
8 slices toasted whole wheat bread

Place margarine and honey in a microwave-safe 1-quart measure or bowl. Microwave (High) 30 to 40 seconds to melt margarine. Stir. Then microwave (High) 60 to 90 seconds, checking that mixture boils rapidly for about 30 seconds. Stir in oatmeal and cinnamon. Microwave (High) 30 to 40 seconds, checking that mixture boils for at least 15 seconds. Cool until slightly thick. Stir well and spread about 2 tablespoons on 1 slice of toasted whole wheat bread; top with second slice. Prepare just enough sandwiches for eating. Refrigerate remaining mixture. Makes ½ cup topping or enough for 4 sandwiches.

Note: If desired, loosely wrap a sandwich in a paper towel and heat until warm (not hot) by microwaving (High) 15 to 20 seconds.

Each sandwich: 352 calories, 9g protein, 17g fat, 48g carbohydrate, 323mg sodium, 0 cholesterol.

Each 2 tablespoons topping: 232 calories, 3g protein, 15g fat, 24g carbohydrate, 117mg sodium, 0 cholesterol.

To make ahead: Prepare topping as above. Refrigerate until ready to use. To soften for easy spreading, microwave (High) 15 to 20 seconds and stir. Spread between toasted whole wheat bread or graham crackers.

Swiss And Bacon Muffins

4 slices bacon
¼ cup butter, softened
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Swiss cheese
4 English muffins, split and toasted

Separate bacon strips and place on several papertowels; top with another paper towel. Microwave (High) 3 to 4 minutes or until bacon is almost crisp. Remove bacon from paper towels; cool, crumble and set aside.

With a fork, stir together butter and mustard until smooth. Add Swiss cheese and crumbled bacon, mixing until well combined. Refrigerate until serving time. Makes 1 cup spread or enough for 8 open-faced sandwiches.

To serve: Soften refrigerated topping by stirring vigorously with a fork. Spread about 2 tablespoons on each toasted English muffin half. Place on a microwave-safe plate. Microwave on Medium (50% power, 325-350 watts) 45 to 60 seconds for each 2 halves, or until cheese just starts to melt.

Each serving — ¼ of recipe: 394 calories, 15g protein, 25g fat, 29g carbohydrate, 819mg sodium, 66mg cholesterol.

Egg and Cheese Roll

1 teaspoon butter
1 egg, beaten
Freshly grated black pepper
1 slice American process cheese
1 hamburger roll

Melt butter in microwave-safe saucer by microwaving (High) 20 to 30 seconds. Add egg and sprinkle with pepper; cover with waxed paper. Microwave (High) 45 to 60 seconds or until set. Place half of cheese on half of egg; fold over. Top with remaining cheese; fold egg and cheese to fit roll. Slide egg and cheese onto roll. Makes 1 serving.

Each serving 339 calories, 15g protein, 21g fat, 22g carbohydrate, 725mg sodium, 279mg cholesterol.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

How times have changed and with them ideas on which duties belong to whom. Neither my father nor my husband fed or burped babies or changed their diapers. They did not wash dishes or push a vacuum cleaner -- that was women's work.

Therefore, I am amazed to see my sons do these things for their children and their wives. Even I have difficulty in accepting the work that they do for their families. One of my sons has been a house-husband for two years. He has done everything that is necessary to raise a child and keep a house in order. Of course, he has managed to do quite a bit of cabinetwork too. He made a large garage door of inlaid blocks of wood plus many wedding gifts for friends and relatives. And, he made many improvements to their house.

By being there day after day to raise our grandson he has learned what I went through raising him. He was a very inquisitive child and got into everything. Now this is exactly what his son is doing. In fact they both stuck a finger in a fan and had to have it stitched.

I think it is a credit to him that, with a Ph.D in soil chemistry, he was able to resign as a professor at a college in Maine and devote himself to his son. I'm sure there were days when he wondered about the wisdom of the move.

But now after two years he has an outside job in his field of research. Matthew will have to adjust to a day-care center as both parents have jobs in Georgia. Matthew had started earlier on a part-time basis and so the adjustment shouldn't be too jolting.

I can't possibly imagine either my father or my husband devoting two years of their lives to one infant!

Be A Winner With Wool

Do you knit, crochet or sew? Do you love the fine feel of wool? Then you may have a winning combination. Compete in the National Make It Yourself With Wool Competition.

The PA Sheep and Wool Growers Association is sponsoring a state and local contest. It is open to those who live in Adams, Cumberland, Dauphin, Lebanon, Lancaster, Perry and York Counties.

All entries must be made from loomed, knitted, or felted fabric or yarn of 100% wool or of a minimum of 60%.

Make It Yourself With Wool is more than just a sewing, knitting or crocheting contest. It is also a fashion competition. Judges look for coordination of the fabric to the pattern, poise and presentation, suitability of the garment to the contestant's age and way of life, as well as skill in sewing, knitting or crocheting.

Categories include junior (14-16 years of age); pre-teen (13 and under); senior (17 to 21 years); and adult (over 21).

Entry date is October 1, for the competition held at Capital City Mall, Camp Hill, on October 29. State competition is November 18-19 to the held at the Keystone Shepards Symposium, Pittsburgh Hyatt. National finals will be held at the Bally Hotel, Las Vegas, Nevada on January 19-20, 1989.

For more information or an entry form, contact Deb Felak, District #3 director, 485 Rocky Ridge Drive, Denver, Pa. 17517 or call (717) 738-3025.

Free Aprons Offered For Pork Recipes

BY LOU ANN GOOD

ALBURTIS (Lehigh) — Good news for those who cook. Free barbecue aprons are being given to two hundred people who contribute a pork recipe to the "Home On The Range" column of "Lancaster Farming."

Pork has changed in recent years. The state Pork Women's Council wants consumers to be aware of pork's new image by trying new ways with pork. What's more convincing than tasting it when you try some new recipes? To encourage pork consumption, the council is giving the aprons to the first 200 people who submit a pork recipe to our "Home on the Range" column.

The aprons are made from high quality, navy blue cloth featuring a full-length chef-style stamped with the logo, "Pork the other white meat." They are suitable for men and women, but are limited to one per family.

So, dig out your pork recipes. Whether it is stir-fry, grilled, broiled or cooked, select one and send it to "Lancaster Farming Pork Promotion," P.O. Box 366, Lititz, PA 17543. Remember one per family. Allow eight weeks for your apron delivery.

The promotion is the brain child of Darlene Burkholder, the National Pork Women's Council Director and head of state promotion. Darlene hails from Alburtis in Lehigh County. She is a full time registered nurse who through the urging of her husband, Stephen, became involved in the council. Stephen is a nationally known pork producer who carries the title of 1988 PA Pork All-American. He operates a farrow to finish operation of 100 sows. For many years, he, with other producer friends, attended the national conventions held in Des Moines, Iowa. His wife recalls, "He kept begging me to accompany him."

When she did, she became enthusiastically involved in the organization. "We've got to educate the public that pork in no longer considered unhealty," she said. "People ruin pork and destroy it by overcooking. It's no longer necessary to cook pork to death to kill germs."

She said that many of her pork recipes can be cooked within 15 minutes. And she prefers to use ground pork in place of ground beef.

Darlene backs up her push for pork by quoting facts released by the National Pork Producers Council.

•Today's hog is 50% leaner than the animal of 25 years ago. Improved genetics and feeding practices have produced a dramatic change in body composition of hogs. Recent USDA research confirms that today's fresh pork is a lean product, containing only about 198 calories per three-ounce serving.

•Trim Hogs Equal less fat. Fat as a pig? Not today. Today's hog has slimmed down, and fresh pork contains considerably less fat than some people assume. Three ounces of cooked, lean pork contain about 9 grams of fat. As little as one-third of the fat in pork is saturated, and 45 to 50 percent monounsaturated.

•Calorie-Conscious Consumers Count on Pork. Lean pork cuts (loin, tenderloin, and fresh leg or cured ham, for example) average around 200 calories or less for a three-ounce serving. That's 10% or less of calories required for an average, lightly-active woman. Whether you're maintaing weight or on a weight-loss diet, fresh pork fits in.

•Cholesterol Counters Take Note. Limiting cholesterol in your diet? Choose lean pork. Three ounces of pork loin contain about 76 milligrams of cholesterol, representing 26 percent of the American Heart Association's recommended maximum of less than 300 milligrams of dietary cholesterol per day. Pork's cholesterol content is about the same as a serving of roast chicken (skin off), dark turkey meat, or lean beef.

•Pork: A nutrient-rich package. Pork is what many nutritionists call a "nutrient-dense" food because it supplies a high amount of essential nutrients for a relatively low amount of calories. A three-ounce serving of pork provides about half of the adult recommended daily allowance for protein. Pork is a primary source of dietary thiamin, and is a rich source of vitamins B-6, B-12, niacin, and riboflavin. Pork is also a good source of "heme" iron, the most readily absorbed form of dietary iron.

•Pork: Wholesomeness Assured. The U.S. pork industry's goal is production of wholesome, lean, nutritious product for the consumer. With that goal in mind, scrupulous growing practices assure pro products tat are safe and wholesome. The ages-old far of trichinosis is unfounded today, as the incidence of trichinae infection in U.S. hogs today is nearly nonexistent. Today's pork can be enjoyed cooked to a medium 160 degrees internal temperature.

•Flash in the Pan versatility. A wide variety of fresh pork cuts are available, and today's boneless pork frees the consumer by offering recipe-ready versatility. Whole tenderloin can be roasted 25 minutes, sauteed as medallions (8 minutes), sliced for stir-fry (10 minutes). These and many other fast preparations methods apply to other lean, boneless pork cuts like the loin and fresh ham.

•The taste that can't be beat. Consumer research shows that people like the taste of pork. And today's lean pork offers more taste sensations than ever before—tender, flavorful pork marries well with other flavors. Every national cuisine features a favorite pork dish.

Don't forget, send in your recipe for your free apron and try new ways of cooking with pork.

Darlene Burkholder, National Pork Women's Council Director, models one of the 200 aprons the council is giving away. If you would like one of the aprons, send a pork recipe to "Lancaster Farming Pork Promotion" P.O. Box 366, Lititz, PA 17543.

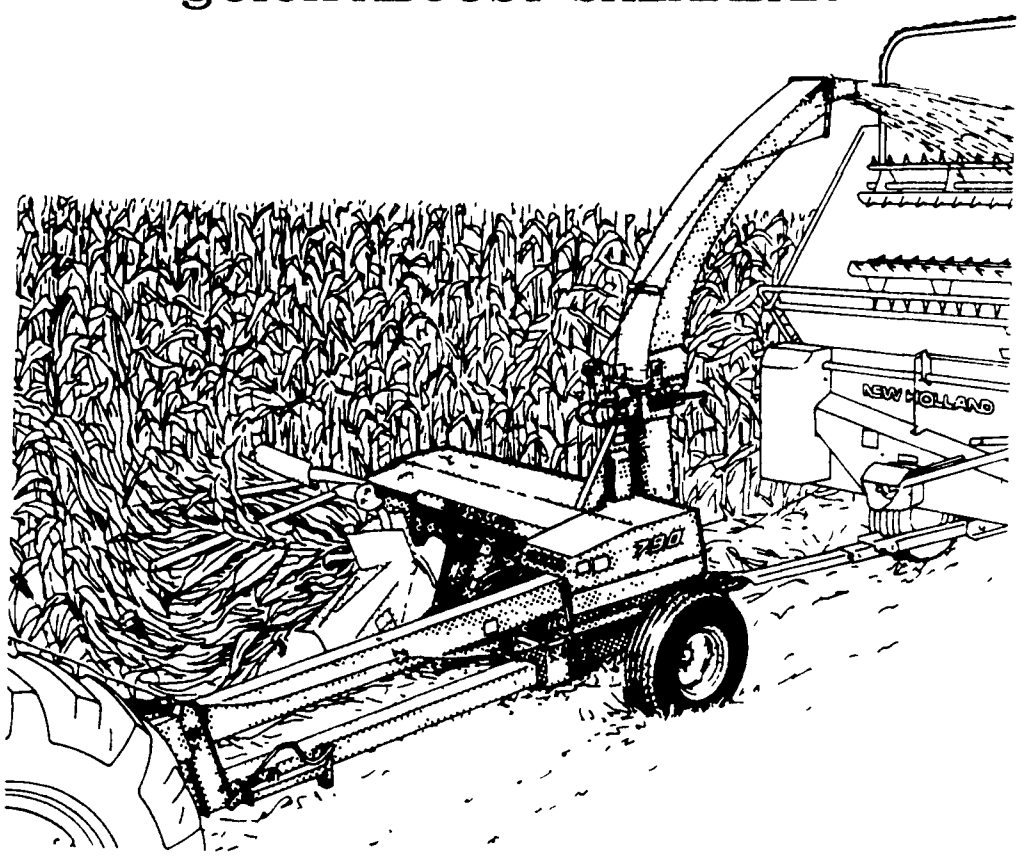
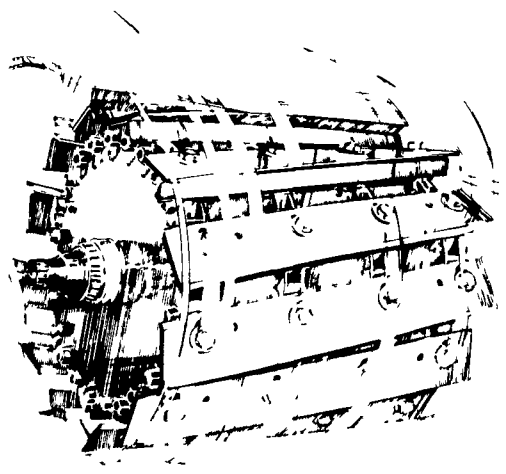
- TWO SPEED BLOWER
- TUNGSTEN EDGE KNIVES



Come on in and trade for performance.

When it comes to harvesting, you can't beat the heavy-duty performance that's built into the New Holland Model 790 forage harvester. Performance starts at the cutterhead. The 19 11/16-inch wide, 12-knife cutterhead delivers a fine uniform chop that's just right for most silage feeding operations. And an electric clutch gives instant response and positive control on the reversing gearbox. The Model 790 is available with either a 540 rpm or 1000 rpm PTO drive.

Stop in today and trade for the performance leader in harvesters - the 790 from Ford New Holland.



CAN YOU TRUST YOUR KNIVES IN THESE TOUGH TESTS?

You can if they're New Holland knives. Every time New Holland updates or improves its cutterheads and knives, it puts the prototypes through these severe tests for durability, wear and dependability

TEST I Must pulverize a 2"x2"x5-foot long solid oak plank. To pass this test, no damage is allowed.

TEST II Must chew up and spit out a cold rolled steel bar, five feet long and 5/8" in diameter, stapled to a 1"x4" pine stud. Steel bar will be chipped into pieces about 1/2" long. Knife edge damage is expected, but knives must be reusable after vigorous sharpening.

TEST III Must chop up a 5-foot-long gathering chain stapled to a 1"x4" pine stud. Severe knife damage is expected. Body of each knife, however, must remain stable. Knives might be resharpenable. Test will end when or if shearbolt fails, or when entire gathering chain is chopped up, whichever happens first.

FAIR DAYS

Gratz Fair

The final two days of the Gratz Fair, which runs from September 19 to 24, will feature one of Nashville's greatest stars along with the death-defying feats of the Hollywood Stunt World Thrill Show.

The thrill show includes anything from "Happy the Clown" in his souped-up clown car to the Newport Crusher Monster Truck and will take to the Gratz Fair dirt track at 7:00 p.m. Friday, September 23. Saturday night, September 24, will turn the stage area to music as award-winning singer John Conlee performs in shows at 7:00 and 8:30 p.m.

Conlee, producer of 15 albums in his nine-year career, is perhaps best known for his hits, "Rose Colored Glasses" and "Lady Lay Down." He was fifth among the overall top artists of 1983-84 behind the likes of Alabama, Kenny Rogers, Hank Williams Jr. and Rick Skaggs.

Conlee, however, is also known for his efforts to help the American farmer. A farmer himself, living on a 32-acre farm just outside Nashville, Conlee is honorary chairman of the Family Farm Defense Fund and helped organize and participate in the FARMAID concerts.

Conlee broke onto the country music scene in style in 1979, being named the Academy of Country Music's Best New Male Vocalist. That year and in 1980 he was nominated for Male Vocalist of the Year and has once been nominated for Best Album of the Year with "Rose Colored Glasses."

Conlee, however, isn't just being heard on radio and through his albums. He has made television appearances on dozens of shows including Hee Haw, Solid Gold, The Nashville Network, the Mike Douglas Show and even an ABC-TV movie, "The Girls in the Office." He is also the radio voice for Budweiser Beer.

Conlee, the father of three children, does between 110 and 120 show dates each year, and this year will come to rural Dauphin County for a show sure to be remembered by the local residents.

The stunt show on Friday night at the fair begins with a demonstration of pursuit driving by performers who have trained various police agencies throughout the country in the art of high-speed pursuit driving. There is also the flaming man, Happy the Clown and the Newport monster truck.

End-of-the-week entertainment at the fair also includes Friday's school bands competition, at 2 p.m. On Saturday, the Gratz Fair's first-ever antique car show and flea market beginning at 10 a.m. Free admission for antique car drivers and their co-pilots. Saturday at 2 p.m. is the last of two Gratz Fair demo derbies.

Every grandstand show, all rides and parking are included in the daily admission price of $4.

Foxfire House Open For Tours

Penn Laurel Girl Scouts will be sponsoring their annual open house at Foxfire House located at Camp Furnace Hills, Denver, Pa. The open house is scheduled for Sunday, September 25 from 1-4 p.m.

Foxfire House is a historical Pennsylvania German homestead kept as it was originally in the 18th and 19th centuries. Girl Scouts participate in live-ins year-round at Foxfire House during which they dress in the traditional costume of the 1700s and carry out activities such as baking bread and pies in the squirrel-tail oven, churning butter, making soap, dipping candles, spinning and weaving and practicing fraktur and scherenschnitte (the German art of papercutting).

Once a year, Foxfire House is open to the public for tours and demonstrations of the activities performed during live-ins. An added attraction will be a sheep-to-shawl demonstration during the afternoon by the Ewe-nique Fiber Guild of Elizabethtown. The shawl will then be auctioned at the close of the open house.

Come spend time with Penn Laurel Girl Scouts at Foxfire House open house.

Call your local Girl Scout office for more information and directions, or call (717) 397-8115.

Off The Beaten Path For Flavor That Can't Be Beat

BY LOU ANN GOOD

MANHEIM (Lancaster) — Tucked away in the south side of Manheim, is Rohrer's Fruit Market. The Junction Road location is away from the din of the double trailers that thunder through the boro, off the beaten path between Lebanon and Lancaster, but not far from the heavily traveled roads that lead to Root's Country Market.

Its isolation has not kept the fruit market from expanding, for it has steadily built it's clientel through word-of-mouth loyal customers.

Daniel and Grace Rohrer started their business nearly 20 years ago by leasing a nearby orchard. Eventually they purchased their present location, which is Dan's family farm.

When they purchased it, the 60 acres were used as a horse farm. Over the years the Rohrers have planted trees on 28-acres until it now produces annually 3,900 one-half bushel baskets of peaches, 6,200 bushels of apples in 18 varieties and a substantial amount of bartlett pears, nectarines, cherries and plums. In addition, they harvest watermelon, peppers, and potatoes and continue growing grain for the feeder cattle they raise.

In 1981 they remodeled the horse stable to use as cold storage. The section that displays their fruit along with jams, nuts, baskets, vegetables and cider is located in a section of the barn.

The Rohrers have six grown children. Two sons and their spouses help them in their fruit operation: Dudley and his wife Beth and Dwight with his wife Rosie.

"We divide the ground and the work," explained Grace, who is in charge of selling at the fruit stand, which is open 12-14 hours per day during the peak growing season.

"By far, we're best know for our apple cider," Grace said. On their cider press during peak season, they make 1,000 gallons of cider a day two times a week.

They always use a combination of sweet and tart apples to produce their cider; otherwise, it would have too much sediment. Mostly they sell it locally at their own fruit stand or groceries; the remainder, they market under other names.

She finds it a pleasure to produce nice fruit in contrast with raising tobacco, which they did when they first began farming. "There's a terrific demand for fruit. It gives us a good feeling to see the purpose of our business being fulfilled." Their purpose is to provide the community with fresh produce rather than ship it elsewhere.

Dan enjoys all the aspects of the orchard, but the picking part always adds a certain amount of excitement. Every year the Rohrers are amazed at the intricatries caused by the weather and this year, they experience a new twist of science in their orchard. As usual, the Rohrers hired a beekeeper to release bees during apple blossoming time. The two week spring blossoming time was cold and cloudy. "The bees won't work in this weather," warned the beekeeper.

The Rohrers were skeptical. They expected the bees to pollinate just like they did every year. But a strange thing happened that confirmed the bee keepers' prediction. This year, the apples hang heavily on the south side while the north side is void of fruit—evidence that the bees prefer spring warmth when pollinating.

With 18 varieties of apples and 16 of peaches, customers are sure to find their personal tastes satisfied. For 20 years, Grace Rohrer has enjoyed serving customers at Rohrers Fruit Market, Manheim.

The Rohrers were skeptical. They expected the bees to pollinate just like they did every year. But a strange thing happened that confirmed the bee keepers' prediction. This year, the apples hang heavily on the south side while the north side is void of fruit—evidence that the bees prefer spring warmth when pollinating.

"Hail is the orchard man's nightmare," Grace remarked. And this year they got some. It hailed on a nearby orchard that they rent. 'The hail lasted less than five minutes, but it left it's mark on the pears." She explained that the hail's cutting mark heals naturally, but in its spot a brown mark gives a tell-tale sign of the weather's cruelty.

Weather, also affects successful fruit spraying. Spraying in anything above 90 degrees is risky since the spray will lose its strength before it hits the tree. Throughout the heat wave, Dan needed to rise much before dawn to take advantage of lower temperatures for spraying, a job which he does not particularly enjoy but which must be done to produce a high quality crop.

Thinning fruit is a June job that must be done by hand. It requires discarding nicely shaped fruit, not because it is defective, but to protect the branches from too much weight and so the fruit will grow as large and colorful.

"When to thin is a risk we need to take," said Grace. "After thinning, a storm might come the next day and shake many more apples and peaches from the tree. But thinning about 20% of the fruit is something that must be done to experience a healthy crop."

Fruit varieties

With 18 varieties of apples and 16 of peaches, will Grace name the best ones?

She shakes her head. "It all depends on personal tastes," she replied. "We have the best yellow peaches, but some customers insist upon a red peach and won't try any other kind." The disadvantage of refusing to try other varieties is that each variety is actually only available for about two weeks. The Rohrers have planted their trees so that they have at least two varieties at all times. Some fruit tastes delicious fresh but does not can or freeze as well.

Grace explained, "It's amazing what nursery experiments produce. The varieties keep improving through grafting." She is especially impressed with the Re-O-So-Gem variety which through three different grafts resulted in a desirable, sweet, yellow peach with less acid.

The second and third generation of Rohrers are now helping out at the fruit market. Here daughter-in-law Beth, wife of Dudley Rohrer, and six-month-old Johanna give Grace a helping hand.

Steps to success

The Rohrers attribute much of their orchard success to the help of the extension county agent and to the fruit growers' meetings. During peak season, an etiologist visits weekly to determine what and where to spray insects and fungus.

As their orchard has matured and expanded, Grace finds it is easier to fill orders. Previously, she needed to count baskets to assure that all orders could be filled before selling to passerbys. "We have a comfortable amount and it gives me a good feeling of accomplishment to be able to fill the demand."

They've garnered many ribbons at the Manheim fair for their fruit. They only enter the local fair because they prefer to see a nice show in their own town.

Orchard tours are given to school groups. "It's the highlight of the business," Grace said, "yet we need to limit the number of tours since we need to hire extra help to give tours." Children who take the tours are given apple shaped coupons to redeem when they come for a followup visit.

The Rohrers find the orchard business compatible with their interests. "The only time I wish we weren't in it," Grace confided, "is at noontime on Saturday. By that time, I'm ready for a break."

Seasonal help includes five or six students who help with picking and grading. Unfortunately the Rohrers needed to start with brand-new help this year as all the previous students left for college this year. "It takes a couple of years to train the students exactly how to grade.

Although it may take several years to train a person how to grade, it only takes a moment to bite into one the orchard's fresh peaches to know that for flavor you can count on Rohrers' hand picked, tree ripened fruit for top flavor. It's that customer satisfaction that keep customers traveling over the out-of-the-way roads to Rohrer's Fruit Market. For more information or directions, call (717) 898-7797.

"Hail is the orchard man's nightmare," Grace remarked.

This year the apples hang heavily on the south side of the orchard, but the north side is almost void of apples. It's proof that the bees did not like to pollinate during the cool weather that blanketed the area during bloosoming time.

Measles Update

HARRISBURG (Dauphin) — During the summer, The Pennsylania Department of Health has continued to see reports of measles cases in Amish children and youth. The Department is concerned that the fall and winter season will allow more cases of measles to occur unless children are protected from the illness. Measles cases have been reported from Lancaster, Juniata, and Mifflin counties. Several Amish persons have died this year from measles.

The Department of Health expects cases of measles to increases in the fall and winter, unless children and youth are immunized with measles vaccine. Measles vaccination can be obtained from a family's physician, or from the State Health Center in each county. Families who wish their children immunized at a State Health Center should telephone the Center for an appointment.

Children who are coming down measles can pass measles to other children before they have any symptoms. Schools are places of transmission of the disease. The exposure can be brief, such as on a school bus or visiting, but still sufficient to transmit the illness.

Measles disease began in Amish communities in Pennsylvania in March. If school children and young adults are vaccinated the number of cases of measles will decrease and finally stop.

If you have questions about measles vaccination call the State Health Center in your county. The telephone number of the State Health Center in Lancaster County is 299-7597.

Sheep Producers Promote Wool Exports

DENVER, Co. — The international textile trade will soon become more aware of American wool as a result of the American Sheep Producers Council's (ASPC) first international market development program. The effort will be partially funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. During the first year USDA Foreign Agricultural Service will provide $300,000 and an additional $100,000 will come from the Targeted Export Assistance (TEA) program.

Europe and the Far East represent over three-fourths of the world's wool consumption. U.S. wool marketing activities will be conducted principally in these two regions, targeted to countries with the greatest potential to increase purchases of U.S. wool. When indentifying the target countries the size of the country's textile industry and its domestic wool production were considered.

"The American Sheep Producers Council is entering a new era as we identify and develop international markets for American wool," says Rodger Wasson, ASPC executive director. The U.S. currently imports about two-thirds of the raw wool consumed in this country. However, in 1987 exports of wool and wool top were the equivalent of 24 percent of U.S. raw wool production. "Top" is wool that has been scoured, combed and formed into a loosely twisted rope, the raw material for the manufacture of yarn.

"The potential exists to expand wool exports in carefully selected markets," Wasson says. The ASPC wool export promotion coincides with an expansion in U.S. sheep production that is currently underway. The resulting increase in U.S. wool production will provide the necessary product for increased export sales.

The apparent contradiction of U.S. wool imports and exports can best be explained by the specialized markets for various grades of wool. Finer wools are currently in strong demand in the U.S., especially for men's suits. Most imported wool is in this category since the U.S. does not produce enough to meet the demand. Medium grade wools represent a significant portion of U.S. production and are not currently in high demand in U.S. mills. Sweaters and tweed fabrics are two of the primary uses for medium wools.

In addition to the difference in demand for various grades of wool, transactions in the textile trade are also the result of the industry being highly segmented. The numerous steps in processing wool such as scouring, topmaking, spinning, weaving, knitting and apparel manufacturing are often carried out by independent firms. At each stage the buyer has the opportunity to consider suppliers worldwide. The result is a tremendous amount of international textile trade.

The Council's strategy is to make all potential buyers, regardless of location, more aware of American wool. Internationally, the U.S. is not normally considered a source of wool, but Wasson says, "In today's rapidly changing economy we must see the world as our marketplace."

The American Sheep Producers Council is a producer funded market development organization headquartered in Denver, Colo. The Council conducts advertising, promotion, education and marketing programs on behalf of the nation's 114,000 sheep producers.

Dairylea Cottage Cheese Wins Gold Medal Award

SYRACUSE, NY — Dairylea Cottage Cheese won the Gold Medal Award during the New York State Fair Cheese competition. The award was presented by New York State Commission of Agriculture Donald Butcher to Howard Holdridge, quality control manager at Dairylea's Vernon, NY, plant during Dairy Day. Dairylea Chief Executive Officer Bob L. Hall said, "This award, recognizing the high quality of our cottage cheese, verifies what we have always believed — that we produce the best-tasting dairy products that consumers can buy."

In addition to participating in the Tenth Annual Dairy Day, Dairylea also sponsored the Andrew Simmons Wildlife Show, an educational, informational and entertaining program about wildlife. Simmon's uses live animals in his show, including an owl, eagle, leopard, bear and python.

In the newly-renovated Dairy Products Building, Dairylea employees gave away biodegradable plastic bags, and once again sponsored the popular Dairylea Ice Cream booth.

Reno, Mark & Jessica are observing Professor Jim Stouffer, Department of Animal Science, Cornell University using the new real time ultrasonic scanning procedure to measure fat thickness and loin eye area on the outstanding boars for the RPM Summer 1988 sale.

Get The "Inside" Picture At RPM FARMS

NEW TECHNIQUE GIVES PICTURE OF REAL LOIN EYE AND MEASURES BACK FAT IN LIVE HOG

The new technique in measuring loin eye area in live animals produces 2 complete cross sectional views immediately with contact of the transducer to the hog's hide This new ultrasonic scanner makes complete scans 15 times a second. At RPM Farms, you can see what's under the skin of our lean, well-muscled Landrace, Yorkshires and Large Whites to make the right selection.

Numerous studies at Cornell University on market hogs just prior to slaughter with this innovative scanner have demonstrated it to be very accurate in predicting the lean content of pork carcasses

Under the SUN

The miracles of natural products, combined with technology, promise a more profitable future for farmers.

MIRACLE FEEDS, Inc., Your "By-Products Specialists", combines the miracle of nature with today's technology to bring you greater profits. One option is Wet Brewers Grains.

WHAT ARE WET BREWERS GRAINS? In the brewing of beer, only the highest quality barley and other cereal grains are used. Wet brewers grains are the portion of the grains that remain following the extraction of carbohydrates that takes place in the brewing process. They provide protein, fat and energy as well as essential minerals — while lowering your feed cost.

For FREE information about The Miracle Feeds Program write or call the office listed below. We'll do everything "Under the Sun" to help your feeding program.

EBY

ALUMINUM GRAIN BODY

CONSTRUCTED FOR YEARS OF MAINTENANCE-FREE SERVICE.

You'll get more out of an Eby aluminum grain body. Lightweight and rugged aluminum provides rigid, fuel-efficient support to fill your grain hauling needs.

Eby packs years of experience, workmanship and performance into every aluminum body it manufactures. And special Eby options let you customize your body to your individual operation. Available in standard lengths, each unit is designed to provide you with an investment in durable performance and practical economy.

Look over these outstanding features.

- Less weight. Eby aluminum bodies weigh up to 30% less than comparable steel and wood construction
- Less maintenance. Aluminum construction won't rust or rot—never needs painting
- Long-life durability. Heavy-duty structural components and hollow-tube frame combine with aluminum floor and sides to stand up to years of hard work

Its Fall Management Time

It's mid-September, and after a most difficult growing season both in terms of drought and heat, and a possible shortage of hay, you're faced with the same old question: How should manage my alfalfa stands this fall?

Food Reserves

First let's review briefly low alfalfa stores food during the growing season.

When alfalfa growth started last spring, food stored in the roots and crowns was used to start new top growth from small crown buds or underground stems. Depletion continued until plants were 6 to 8 inches tall. By that time food was being manufactured in the leaves more rapidly than it was being used and some food storage began. Storage continued and would have reached its highest level about full bloom. Hopefully you cut it before that stage of growth.

After the first crop was harvested, hopefully by full bud to early bloom, the process of food reserve depletion and renewal was repeated for the new growth. Root reserves were, of course, not at the highest level at the bud stage of growth. But alfalfa is amazing and plants can maintain a satisfactory level of reserves if harvest of later cuttings is delayed until early bloom and other good management practices are followed. These include using multiple pest resistant varieties, maintaining adequate levels of fertility and reducing good insect control.

This year, of course, was not a normal year for managing alfalfa, especially for second and third cuttings. In many areas of the state there was little mid-summer growth. Regular cutting schedules were non-existent and flowering was irregular. In many instances the status of food reserves in the roots may be in question.

Fall Management

All of which brings me to a statement you've heard me make several times: fall management is just one part of your total management scheme. And you cannot separate fall management from your cutting management practices during the rest of the year. And this year is no exception.

But here are a few suggestions that may help you decide how to manage your stands during the next 6 weeks.

Seedings made this spring need a high food reserve to persist through the winter. Generally, all cuttings made this year should have been made no earlier than early bloom. And if possible do not take another cutting from these stands this fall.

Established stands are another matter. We still consider the 4 to 6 weeks before the first killing frost (defined as the first freeze of 28 degrees for more than 2 hours) so called critical period. Nevertheless, the "critical period" concept is less important when you use multiple pest resistant varieties and maintain a high soil fertility.

Certainly the conservative approach is to avoid cutting during the 6-week period prior to the average killing frost date in your area.

More realistically if you do harvest during late September to early October be sure you've waited at least 45 days following the previous cutting.

And, if you take a cutting at or after frost, leave a 4" stuble to help plants trap any snow which acts as an insulator shielding plants from cold weather. Hopefully this helps to reduce the freezing and thawing that causes heaving.

Of course if you leave older stands that you plan to plow under next spring, ignore all of the above. These fields can be harvested any time weather and time permits.

Finally, proper fertilization along with the use of multiple pest resistant varieties helps to insure better winter survival even where you stretch your luck on cutting. Healthy, well-fertilized plants leave deeper roots and less likely to be heaved from the soil. They also have more leaf area for building up root reserves. In this regard potassium is especially critical for keeping plants healthy during the winter.

Ephrata Fair

The Ephrata Fair will celebrate their 70th year and will officially open on Tuesday, September 20th, beginning at noon and continuing through Saturday, September 24th. The Fair was originally formed to honor the homecoming of World War I veterans in 1918. It was since reorganized and is now under the sponsorship of the Ephrata Farmers Day Association and has grown to become the largest street fair in Pennsylvania and which attracts more than 200,000 people each year.

On Wednesday evening, September 21st (rain date Thursday, September 22nd) beginning at 7:00 p.m., the Ephrata Farmers Day association will present their annual gigantic street parade which attracts approximately 70,000 spectators and consists of many talented high school bands, a great variety of marching bands and special groups, plus a beautiful array of floats and the presentation of the Miss Lancaster County Scholarship Pageant contestants.

Two new items will be added to the fair this year. A new car display will be held on the lot of John Steffy Pontiac/Buick located on South State Street, plus an Apple Pie Contest. "Moms" reputation as the "greatest apple pie maker" goes on the line at the Ephrata Fair this year. Married, single, male, female, young and old may compete. Prizes awarded for first, $25, second, $20, and third, $15. This preliminary competition will lead to the "Blue Ribbon Apple Pie Contest" and selection of the Commonwealth's best apple pie baker during the 73rd annual Pennsylvania State Farm Show held in Harrisburg January 8 - 13th. Pies will be judged for crust, filling, overall appearance and sensory qualities as well as creativity. Winners at the Ephrata Fair will be presented with certificates making them eligible for the State Farm Show. Prizes for this Show will be first, $50, second, $40 and third, $30. There will be various displays of needlecraft, which includes clothing, needlework, knitting and crocheting, afghans, quilts and rugs plus 4-H needlework, knitting and crocheting. These displays will be located in the former Reading Company railroad station on East Main Street. There will be a models display in the window of the Ephrata Review located on East Main Street. Exhibitors from Ephrata and surrounding areas will be entering various items such as vegetables, fruits, nuts, etc. and will be displayed in the exhibits tent at the rear of the railroad station.

Included will be an art exhibit along with the exhibits of baked goods, canned and dried foods, jellies, butters, jams, flowers, craft and photography - all of which will be on display at the Ephrata Pioneer Fire Hall banquet room located in the rear of the Fire Hall located on South State Street. Entries for these items will be received on Monday, September 19th, between 3:00 a.m. and 9:00 p.m. A Bake Sale will be conducted on Tuesday, September 20th at 10:00 a.m. in front of the Ephrata Review on East Main Street with all proceeds going to the Ephrata Community Hospital.

The agricultural portion and the foundation on which the Fair was originated is known as "Tent City" and is located in the Ephrata Community Park. Serving as temporary host to the baby beef, cattle and swine, sheep and grains, "Tent City" becomes the focal point of interest during the judging of the livestock. There is also an open class Dairy Show and an FFA/4-H sheep breeding division. Also on display to the public will be the exhibits of tobacco, grains, farm machinery and forage plus the mini displays of youth groups. This year again a baby beef sale will be conducted and will be held at approximately 6:00 p.m. immediately following the carcass lamb sale in the Ephrata Park. There will be a Family Fun night held in the Ephrata Park immediately following the much publicized Cow Milking contest which is held at 8:00 p.m. Family Fun will consist of many contests for all ages including the big wheeler race, egg throwing contest, potato picking, water balloon, and many others.

Among other contests of skill at "Tent City" will be the tractor driving competition, garden tractor pulling and the ever popular pig chase.

For the convenience of the public, there will be a shuttle bus provided free of charge to "Tent City" to and from Ephrata Community Park on Tuesday, September 20th, Thursday, September 22nd and Friday, September 23rd, and will be located on the corner of West Fulton Street and South State Street.

Dual Media Air Filter Reduces Maintenance

GASTONIA, NC — The tough air filtration problem for working pickup trucks is solved by Wix® Filters' new "Dual Media Air Filter."

The new design represents a breakthrough in protection for the working light truck. The product of a two-year research program, it uses two different filter media to provide significantly greater filter element life, improved protection for engines and reduced maintenance costs.

Modern domestic and import pickups come from the factory with standard single element passenger car air filters, Wix technical experts explain. These pleated paper filters are satisfactory for highway use. But they are unable to cope with the dirt, dust and moisture encountered by pickups in off-road working environments like farms, construction jobs and mining sites.

Wix's "Dual Media Air Filter" employs two separate filter elements:

1. A chemically treated paper element, consisting of oven-cured, phenolic resin impregnated cellulose fiber, with an "arched" pleat configuration. The unique arched design gives 35-65 percent greater dirt holding capacity than standard filters, Wix claims.

2. A special depth-type outer element wrapped around the filter's body. This second element acts as a precleaner and moisture barrier to screen out much of the initial contaminants hitting the filter.

The result is an efficiency rating of 99.6 percent, substantially more than the 98 percent rating of some conventional pickup truck filters, Wix experts say.

Other key features include:

- A dense, extra-wide crush seal on top and bottom helps prevent dirt from bypassing the filter element inside the air cleaner.
- An outer body of expanded metal is plated for rust resistance.
- A tough inner screen acts as a flame trap in backfires and lends additional rigidity to the filter.
- An extra-strong package, claimed to be the toughest in the industry, protects the dual filter in shipping and handling.

"The biggest problem for pickup trucks on job sites is fine dust," comments Tom Clemmer, Wix Filters' director of technical services. "The typical OEM filter just can't cope with it on a work site.

"Wix drew on its heritage as one of the most experienced suppliers of filters for trucks, farm machinery and off-road and mining equipment to solve this problem. We conducted over two years of field tests all over the western states. The result is an exclusive product to protect users' investment in tens of thousands of working trucks throughout the country."

Wix "Dual Media Air Filters" are available for most models of domestic and import light trucks. These heavy duty filters can also be installed on many passenger cars, especially popular mid-size and full-size models.

For further information on the new Wix "Dual Media Air Filter," contact your local Wix jobber, WD or factory representative.

Berks County Swine Show, Sale A Success

READING — Brian Beam, son of Mr. and Mrs. Titus Beam of Elverson and a member of the Twin Valley FFA, showed the grand champion hog at the recent Berks County Swine Show and Sale. Brian's 255-pound first-place heavy heavyweight hog was purchased by Hatfield Quality meats for $3.40 per pound. The animal had been bred by Brian's cousin, Nelson Beam. The reserve champion hog was the second-place heavy heavyweight animal shown by Gregg Stricker of the Hamburg FFA Chapter. Pioneer Grange purchased Gregg's animal for a $2 per pound. The meat will be used for the Grange's stand at the Reading Fair.

A total of 61 hogs were shown by 19 FFA members from six FFA chapters. In the sale 14,914 pounds of live hogs were sold for $9713.44. Purchasers of hogs were: Hatfield Quality Meats, Pioneer Grange, Russel Henry, F.M. Brown, Myles Angstadt, Berks Lehigh Farm Credit Services, Richard Brandt Real Estate, Paul Stoudt, Hazle Pork Products, Leesport Agway, PA Farmers of Shamokin, Nissley Feeds.

Eastern Pork Producers presented the grand champion trophy, Hillside Acres Farm presented the reserve champion trophy, Elton Muth presented the senior fitting and showmanship trophies, and Nelson Beam the junior fitting and showmanship trophies.

Leesport Market and Auction provided the facilities for the show and sale as well as a truck and manpower to haul pens. Auctioneer was Ralph Zettlemoyer. Pens came from the Kutztown Fair. The Berks County FFA expresses its sincere thanks to everyone who helped to make the show and sale a success.

COME AND SEE ONE OF THE MOST RUGGEDLY BUILT DISK HARROWS ON THE MARKET TODAY

1231 DISC

THE DISC FOR THOSE WHO DEMAND EXCELLENCE
- IN DESIGN
- PERFORMANCE
- CUSTOMER ACCEPTANCE

3-SECTION FLEXIBLE TANDEM DISC HARROW

You just can't beat this one! It's at the top of the chart in performance and at a price you can afford. Come by and let us show you just how much quality your dollar can buy!

SUNFLOWER THE VERY BEST

When we say the new Sunflower Tandem Disc Harrow performs, that's just what we mean. Whether you're working terraces, rolling country side or the flat lands, the Sunflower Tandem's flexible wings stretch out and follow ground contour without skipping, gouging or buckling. The engineering concepts built into the new tandem have completely eliminated any possibility of side-draft And what's the result of all of these features . performance!

Heavy duty wing and lift cylinders, big 24"x¼ " disc blades, and a high carbon 1¾ " gang shaft are just a few of the distinctions that set the 1231 apart from other tandem discs in its class. Big 2"x4" tubular steel tongue, durable tongue jack, and double lip hitch clevis makes up a tongue and hitch assembly that is virtually indestructible. The wheel hub assembly features a "Slip-In" spindle for simple one bolt mounting 11L tires and tubes mounted on 15"x10" 6 bolt wheels constitute a dual transport wheel assembly that effectively carries the load when transporting or when discing.

GAUGE WHEELS
One standard feature that has become a trade mark with the Sunflower disc line is the front mounted guage wheel Two adjustable guage wheels prevent the front gangs from gouging, buckling and cutting deeper than the rear gangs

SPRING LOADED SCRAPERS
Optional spring loaded scrapers (Walkers) help minimize plugging by providing constant contact with the turning disc blade. They feature adjustable arm angle, spring tension and replaceable blades

STRESS RESISTANT DESIGN
The Sunflower tandem disc harrow has the same high-strength qualities that have given Sunflower discs a reputation of utilizing superb design and engineering techniques. Areas of stress have been predetermined and strengthened to assure a quality product with "built-in-durability" The hinge assembly constructed of heavy duty steel, has a greaseable sleeve and is securely welded to the massive 3"x5" gang bar. Formed gussets anchor the gang bar to the 3"x5" steel frame.

These "stress-resistant" features of the Model 1231 Tandem Disc Harrow make it unprecedented in the field of medium weight tandems

SELF LEVELER
1. LOWERED POSITION. In the lowered position, the self-leveler balances the front and rear weight of the disc. This enables the total weight of the disc to be carried on the disc blades
2. RAISED POSITION. In the raised position, the self-leveling action provides equal front and rear road clearance relationships.

Because of the simple design of the CASE IH Axial Flow Combines, they can be reconditioned by Hoober's expert combine mechanics to like new condition, so they will provide 2nd and 3rd owners years of satisfactory and profitable operation.

2nd LAW Of Hoober Reconditioned Axial-Flow Combines

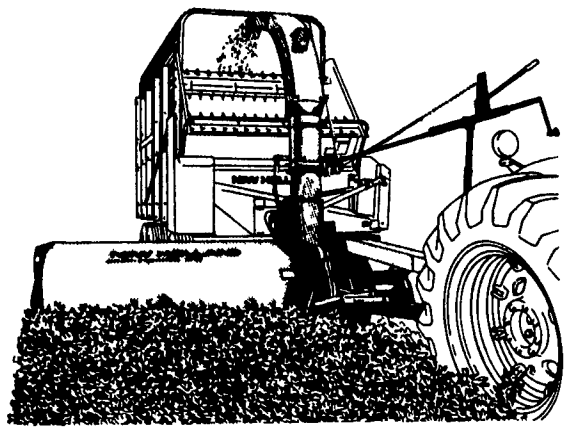
Exclusive – 12-knife cutterhead

High-quality feed is important to you So you'll like the fine uniform chop you get from the Model 718 forage harvester It's the only medium-duty chopper available with a 12-knife cutterhead to give you a controlled even cut The uniform length-of-cut makes for easier unloading blowing, storing and feeding And you can choose from four crop saving heads—a one- or two row cornhead a windrow pickup or a sickiebar

Fill silos fast

The Model 30 forage blower has only one speed—FAST It keeps up with your harvester and wagons and fills silos quickly The secret of the Model 30's capacity is its 1,000-rpm driveline and the Whirl A Feed® hopper that gives the crop a 'running start' before entering the blower And the hopper is a whopping 48 inches in diameter for reduced spillage If you're looking for a blower with amazing capacity, ask us about the Model 30



All-seasons chopper

A Crop-Chopper® is perfect for a variety of chopping jobs Use it to cut green feed, make bedding out of cornstalks or straw or shred and spread cornstalks for mulching It can even mow weeds or clear small brush and stubble

These new Hesston pull-type mower-conditioners are designed to cut fast, dry hay quickly and save the leaves.

See all of the value-packed features of these outstanding Hesston-built machines at your dealer today!

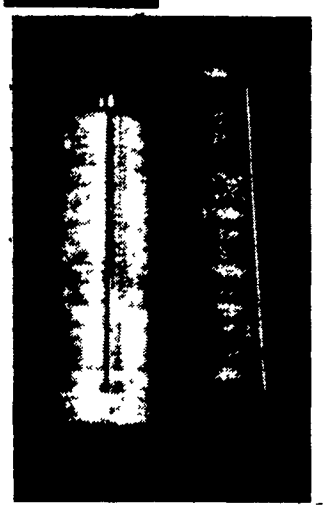
"Consider The Concrete Advantages"



You still have time to get your Sollenberger Silo for high moisture corn storage this fall. The summer of 1988 will be remembered for the many hot, dry days. These high temperatures damaged a lot of stored corn in structures that have a thin wall and do not reflect heat. Avoid this heat damage with a poured concrete silo from Sollenberger Silos Crop.

* The Laidig 43 bottom unloader handles high moisture ear corn and shelled corn.
* The Laidig 98 or 198 will do a good job with grains or forage at 50% moisture. BY FILLING EARLIER YOU CAN SAVE YOUR VALUABLE LEAVES.

You Will Appreciate The Quality Of A Sollenberger Silo For Many Years To Come.

FACT: Our poured concrete wall has 780 times more heat-resisting ability than steel. Heat damage occurs when stored feed is heated above 95° F. Our silo protects your feed quality.

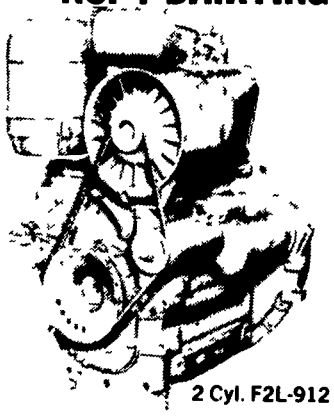
NO. 1 DAIRYING DIESEL



2 Cyl. F2L-912

KHD DEUTZ

Since 1968 F2L-912 diesels have earned the reputation as the most reliable diesel Don't settle for less.

EASIER STARTING: Heavy flywheel provides easy starting. No electric heater plugs.

QUIETER: Runs quieter than most water cooled diesels. Very quiet exhaust.

Continuous Duty Rating:
26.5 HP @ 1800 RPM

Fewer repair parts than comparable three-cylinder diesels - cheaper to overhaul.

It has direct injection, lube oil cooling, and oil cooled pistons. This engine has proven to survive the extreme heat of a heavy load in a small engine house better than any other engine.

SILO-BOOSTER

Laboratory analysis of both treated and untreated silages confirms the increased production of lactic acid by the bacterial cultures in SILO-BOOSTER.

	SILO-BOOSTER TREATED	CONTROL
Lactic acid % (average of 11 measurements from day 1 to day 30)	2.35%	1.83%
pH (average of 11 measurements from day 1 to day 30)	3.98%	3.96%

While both silages showed very similar changes in total pH change; the SILO-BOOSTER treated silage contained more lactic acid. The homofermentive production of lactic acid by SILO-BOOSTER cultures reduces the potential for dry matter losses and the generation of excessive heat of fermentation.

SILO-BOOSTER treated silage was able to generate income per ton of forage feed. With milk valued at $ .125 per pound; butterfat at $ .17 per point; forage at $ .045 per pound of dry matter, and the concentrate portions at $ .08 per pound; SILO-BOOSTER silage returned $4.90 for each $1.00 invested in inoculant.

APPLICATION: 1 Lb. of SILO-BOOSTER per ton of Forage.
2 Lbs. of SILO-BOOSTER per ton of High Moisture Ear Corn.

Musselman, Strausbaugh Show York Fair Supreme Sheep

BY LISA RISSER

Musselman, a second-year exhibitor from Lancaster, showed the champion ram and reserve champion ewe in the Hampshire class as well as winning the pen of lambs, breeder's young flock, get of sire, and flock classes in the breed. At last year's York Fair he showed both the supreme ram and ewe.

Strausbaugh's supreme championship win is but one in a string for the York man, who has 40 brood ewes that he keeps on a 50-acre farm. His Dorsets won all the classes in their division save one, which went to Stacey Suffel.

The top spots in the Natural Colored competition were nabbed by Candy Irwin and Tracy Claybaugh, with Irwin exhibiting both reserve champions and Claybaugh having the breed's champions.

Carly Kelly faced no competition with her Merino ewes, of which she had a yearling and a spring ewe.

Two exhibitors, Beverly Hayes and Richard Powell, competed for the top Rambouillet honors. Both champion and reserve champion ram and ewe titles went to Powell.

John Eaton Jr.'s flock of Cheviots swept their division winning all blue ribbons.

The Bixler family competed among themselves in the Oxford division with Jason showing the champion and reserve champion rams and Allen having the champion and reserve champion ewes.

Goldstar Farms and Debra Etzler traded off the blue and pink rosettes with their Shropshires. Goldstar Farms exhibited the champion ram and reserve champion ewe, while Etzler had the reserve champion ram and the champion ewe.

Charles Zerby walked away from the Southdown competition with the most blue ribbons including the rosettes for champion ram and champion ewe. Matt Trostle and Drew Bankert continued the contest begun in the 4-H breeding competition and split the reserve championship honors. Trostle showed the ram and Bankert the ewe.

Two out of the four top titles in the Suffolk category went to Joe Zerby, who showed the reserve champion ram and ewe. Melissa Walker was the owner of the champion ram, while Paul Leader's ewe was named champion.

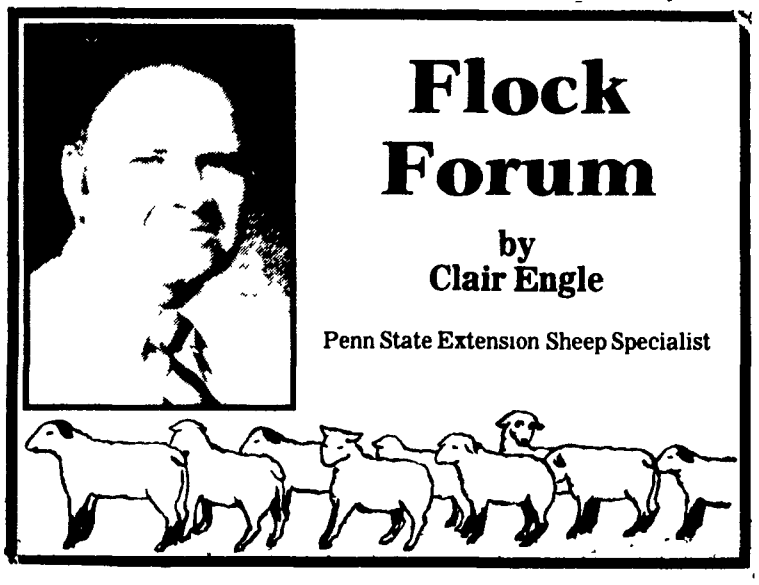
The supreme champion ram at the York Fair was exhibited by Greg Strausbaugh, right, of York. He had help showing his spring ram Dorset from Doris Powell.



Sheep Breeding Management Tips
By Clair Engle

Are your ewes and rams ready for the breeding season? Ready or not, some people have already turned the rams in with the ewes.

Following are some general recommendations to consider in planning a successful breeding season.

Ram Management and Health Tips:

1. Shear and treat ram for internal parasites one month before he is turned with ewes.

2. Semen evaluation is a good investment to verify the ram's fertility. Check with your veterinarian for this service.

3. Trim feet and check for foot-rot problems.

4. Body condition should be a 3+. Provide 3/4 to 1 pound daily supplement for 4 weeks prior to breeding for extra body condition.

5. Provide hard-surfaced exercise lot.

6. Provide one mature ram per 40 ewes; one ram lamb per 25 ewes. To maintain body condition provide rams a daily supplement and rest by separating from ewes during the day.

7. Define your breeding season so it corresponds to a prime marketing period. Suggest ram exposure for a 40-day breeding period.

8. Use a marking harness or paint rams brisket daily with yellow ochre for first breeding period followed with venitian red. Mix material with mineral oil, making a thick paste. Change colors on day 16 of first breeding cycle.

9. Check daily to see that rams are working.

Ewe Management and Health Tips:

Four weeks prior to breeding -

1. Ewes in heavy fleece (8-9 months growth) should be crotched or togged around udder and vulva.

2. Treat ewes for internal parasites with a broad spectrum wormer (ex. Tramisol, Ivermec). Repeat treatment after first hard-frost if prior dosage was given before any freezing period.

3. Sort and supplement ewes needing additional body condition.

4. Body weight and condition is crucial if you are exposing ewe lambs. Suggested minimum age and body weight for the larger sized breeds, 8 months and 120 pounds, respectively.

5. Trim feet and treat for foot rot.

Two weeks prior to breeding -

1. The use of both teaser rams and a flushing period can enhance your lambing response. A two-week teasing period will get 15-20 percent more ewes to cycle on the first half of your 2 cycle breeding period giving you a tighter lambing period. Flushing will simulate a higher ovulation rate (4-6 percent).

2. Use of brassica crops make a good fall flushing forage (October thru December).

York Fair Market Lamb Competition

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK — Hampshires dominated the York Fair's 4-H Market Lamb competition, with the leggy, dark-faced breed commanding both champion and reserve awards.

Taking championship market lamb honors was 14-year-old Mike Klinedinst of Stewartstown with the entry that topped the heavy weight division. The winner was one of three spring lambs which the 4-H'er purchased from Red Lion breeder Ron Trostle. At the recent Shippensburg Preview Show, the lamb had bested its weight class.

Jane Bosely, right, and Mike Klinedinst traded off top sheep titles during the showmanship and fitting competition. Bosley was champion fitter and reserve champion showman while Klinedinst was champion showman and reserve champion fitter.

A "reluctant" 4-H member initially, Mike is exhibiting lamb projects for his fourth year. In related competition, he was selected champion showman and reserve champion fitter. Mike is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Klinedinst, Stewartstown R1.

Matt Trostle, 9, earned the reserve champion market lamb rosette with his reserve champion from the heavyweight division. The Hampshire was a homebred from the Ron Trostle family flock. A second-year 4-H member, Matt also exhibited the lightweight division champion, over Wade Beyer, Dover, who took reserve division honors.

Mediumweight champion was the entry of Heather Gohn, Thomasville, topping the reserve mediumweight winner exhibited by Sonja Shearer, Abbottstown.

USDA & US Department OF Education

Team Up To Assist Farmers

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture and the U.S. Department of Education are joining in a cooperative effort to teach agricultural students conservation while helping farmers meet Farm Bill requirements.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture George S. Dunlop and Assistant Secretary of Education Bonnie Guiton today signed an agreement to provide vocational educators with the necessary technical assistance to accelerate the teaching of soil and water conservation and natural-resource management. With this background, their students will be able to help farmers understand their responsibilities under the 1985 Farm Bill, possibly by helping conduct group conservation planning meetings.

About 40 percent of American farmers -- some 800,000 -- have highly erodible land and must develop conservation plans by January 1, 1990, to remain eligible for certain USDA program benefits. These plans must be implemented by January 1, 1995.

More than 8,000,000 students in high schools, vocational-technical schools and community colleges, as well as adult farmers, are attending vocational education programs in agriculture. Soil and water conservation education is a major part of these programs.

"We see this partnership as providing a wonderful opportunity for vo-ag students to get practical, real-world experience," said Dunlop. "At the same time, they can assist the Soil Conservation Service help farmers meet Farm Bill compliance provisions."

"It's a great pleasure to join in this effort on behalf of Secretary Bennett and the Department of Education," Guiton said. "Public-public partnerships such as this enable government to work smarter and deliver its services more cost-effectively."

Under the agreement, the two departments will work cooperatively at the state and county level.

This forage harvester has an optional metal detector that shuts down feedrolls and the attachment drive before metal can reach the cylinder.

860 Forage Harvester Now Available From Gehl

WEST BEND, WI — The Gehl Company introduces its new model 860 forage harvester with optional Metal Stop metal detector.

"The 860 is an economical machine that's made to take on just about any harvesting job. Its simple design and fewer working parts ensures easy maintenance and less downtime than the competition," said Terry LeFever, forage harvesting equipment product manager.

The 860's Metal Stop option protects machines and livestock from tramp metal. When ferrous materials are detected in the crop, the feedrolls and attachment drive shut down before the metal can reach the cylinder.

The harvester also features one-way shearbolt protection on the main feedroll drive, which reduces downtime in the event of overload. The 860's over-running clutch option allows the cylinder and blower to continue to freewheel when pto power has been cut, reducing the load on the pto brake.

"Standard features include an eight-knife cylinder, plus a close-coupled cylinder and blower. Add in all the attachments and options and you'll see why the 860 is a good buy," said LeFever.

Unverferth Combine Duals Increase Traction

KALIDA, OH — Combine duals that help increase traction and improve flotation for more reliable operation in soft, muddy fields are available from Unverferth Manufacturing Co. Inc.

Unverferth combine duals improve flotation, which allows the combine header to stay more level, reducing the stress on the combine axle and other components. The duals also spread the combine's weight over more area thereby reducing compaction. The result is an undamaged field that gives better yields.

Unverferth combine duals fit most combines. They are available with a choice of 5-, 10-, 13-, 15-, or 17-inch ten-bolt hub extensions and dual wheels in any size.

For free literature or more information, contact Unverferth Manufacturing Co. Inc., PO Box 357, Kalida, OH 45853; 800/322-6301.

Maintenance Keeps Downtime At Bay

MILWAUKEE, WI — "Every minute of preventive maintenance has the potential to save 10 minutes of downtime in the field," according to John Hyer, Gleaner combine product manager.

Before you take your combine into the field, Hyer suggests examining it from top to bottom.

- Check for any loose hardware.
- Look for condensation in the fuel tank.
- Make certain all idlers are turning.
- Perform all periodic maintenance, including a check of the air cleaner, fuel filter and fluid levels, engine oil, hydraulics and transmission. Add engine oil chosen to match operator's manual recommendations.
- Lubricate corroded or rusted flex headers and oil gathering chains on your corn head.
- All bearings, flanges, lock collars and lock collar setscrews should be checked and tightened if

New Alfalfa Varieties Mixture of Time, Tests

TIPTON, IN. — Begin with 30 years of experience and germplasm development.

Mix in a modern program developing about 200 experimentals per year with 40 thousand yield test plots and 250,000 nursery plots at five stations and an additional 21 locations throughout the U.S. and Canada.

Add 20 full-time employees, with additional support from biotechnology, entomology and pathology, many with doctorate degrees in plant breeding and related sciences, along with additional part-time employees.

Combined, this recipe composes one of the most extensive private alfalfa breeding programs in the country, that of Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc.

The company has been involved in alfalfa research for 30 years, says Tim Woodward, director of the Pioneer alfalfa breeding department. The program began as a joint effort with the Arnold-Thomas Company in 1958.

Pioneer has intensified its alfalfa breeding efforts in the 80s by constructing five new breeding facilities in areas of high forage use. The most recently completed station is in Quarryville, Pennsylvania, in the center of Lancaster County, known as one of the most productive agricultural counties in the U.S.

Woodward said the alfalfa program has matured since the Pioneer® brand variety, 525, was among the first varieties to be certified in 1962.

"We now have varieties that fit most conditions for alfalfa growers throughout the U.S. -- from the east coast to the west coast," he said.

To develop these varieties Pioneer plant breeders use breeding techniques such as phenotypic recurrent selection and a clonal evaluation method - Woodward said.

"The population method is utilized for traits that are easily inherited such as many disease resistance traits. But for traits that are more genetically complex, such as yield, we use the clonal method," Woodward said.

The clonal method is considered a more advanced approach toward the development of alfalfa varieties.

Regardless of methods used, wide area testing is a requirement. Each experimental is tested at each station, as well as location in various states surrounding the station.

For the Quarryville site these are located in Phelps, New York; Buckeystown, Maryland; Manquin, Virginia; and Lancaster and Quarryville, Pennsylvania.

"Results from these tests helps us understand how a variety will perform in a wide range of environments, rather than in one isolated area," said Dave Jessen, Quarryville station manager.

"Growers in each area have definite needs for alfalfa. Some use it for on-farm feeding, others may sell it to other livestock producers, or for other purposes. It's my job as a plant breeder to understand the needs of farmers in the northeast and develop varieties that will meet those needs," he said.

Plant breeders are also interested in developing varieties for special niches, either the end use or for a variety with special characteristics to adapt it to unique growing conditions.

Jessen said a major breeding objective in alfalfa in the development of varieties with resistance to the Big 5 diseases -- Verticillium wilt, bacterial wilt, Fusarium wilt, Phytophthora root rot and anthracnose.

A new variety, introduced by Pioneer in limited quantity this year, is 5331 and Jessen said this variety has nearly all the defensive characteristics needed for the northeast and coastal growing areas.

"Finding a variety that balances the necessary pest resistance combined with high forage yield, long stand life and high forage quality is the ultimate objective," Jessen said.

Local Co-Op Boards Reorganize

YORK — York Farm Credit Service announced the recent reorganization of their Boards of Directors. York County dairymen were named chairman and vice chairman of the local Land Bank and Production Credit Associations respectively.

Ralph H. McGregor of Kralltown in York County was elected chairman and Janet T. Krouse of Arendtville in Adams County was elected vice chairman to the Board of Directors of the Federal Land Bank.

The Production Credit Association named Norman G. Blocher of Aspers in Adams County as chairman and Robert L. Smyser of Smyer's Richlawn Farms in Thomasville as vice chairman.

The York Farm Credit Service presently provides more than $65 million in long-term land bank loans to 1,000 borrowers and $38 million in short-term production credit association loans to 775 borrowers in Southcentral Pennsylvania.

York Farm Credit Service is affiliated with the Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore, part of the nationwide Farm Credit System, the nation's leading agricultural lending institution. The Bank serves farmers and agricultural cooperatives in the states of Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, West Virginia, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

Maintenance Keeps

necessary.

• Run the combine for 10 to 15 minutes, then stop and check for heating and misalignment of idlers, bearings, sheaves, belts and chains.

Due to the crop conditions in many areas, Hyer recommends several possible operating changes.

• Move the stripper plates on the corn header inward because of smaller stalk and ear size.

• Increase groundspeed to keep the unit full to minimize wasted and damaged grain.

• For soybeans, turn the air speed down to keep beans from blowing out of the machine due to smaller-diameter beans.

• For shorter beans, install a rubber sweep on the reel bats to bring the beans in from the cutterbar.

"After your combine is set up, a few minutes of routine daily maintenance checks can also save you hours of costly downtime," says Hyer. He recommends the following daily maintenance steps as time well spent during harvest:

• The most important step is to follow the lubrication chart on the side of the machine. Listed are 10- and 50-hour grease and lube areas that need to be given attention.

• Check the tension on all chains, especially elevator and drive chains, and belts. It's also important to physically inspect all belts. Turn them over to look for signs of weathering or cracking.

• Pull out the dipsticks, to see that all oil and fluid levels are adequate, and pull out the air-conditioner coil and blow it out.

• In the rotary screen area, check for chaff blocking the air pattern. Inspect the air choke on the transverse-flow fan, cleaning all chaff from that area.

• On corn heads, lubricate and adjust tension on header drive chains and connecting chains. Also adjust stripper plates for varying cornstalk size between fields.

• Once a week, cycle the torque sensor on the cylinder drive from 195 rpm to 1,095 rpm (your low and high range) to lubricate the cam actuators on the variable speed corn header drive and the cylinder drive torque sensor.

"One of the advantages of Gleaner combines is their air-cooled diesel engines," Hyer adds. "Anything associated with anti-freeze and coolant leaks is eliminated. The only cooling system maintenance Gleaner combines require is a check of the drive belt on the cooling fan and blowing out the debris on the fins on the cooling engine and around the cooling system."

Eighth Ag Security Area Formed In Chester County

WEST CHESTER (Chester) — Chester County's 8th and largest agricultural security area was adopted by the Honey Brook Township Board of Supervisors on September 1. The district covers just under 7,000 acres and has 84 participating landowners. The Chester County Agricultural Development Council (ADC) commended the Township for its action to adopt the agricultural security area. Ray Pickering, ADC director, told the Supervisors that there are now 19,000 acres included in the agricultural districts in Chester County, with an additional 12,000 acres proposed Statewide, there are now more than 80 participating Townships with approximately 310,000 acres included.

Agricultural security areas provide farmers with protection from nuisance regulations and ordinances that might restrict normal farming practices such as the spreading of manure and hours of operation. Also, proposals for condemnation of farmlands by public agencies must be approved by the State Agricultural Land Condemnation Board, the County Commissioners, the Township Supervisors and the local Agricultural Advisory Committee.

Agricultural security areas also from the geographic basis for Pennsylvania's pending agricultural preservation program. Farms must be located within agricultural security areas to qualify for application to the county and state for sale of conservation easements. Enabling legislation for this program is still awaiting approval in Harrisburg. Two versions, HB422 and SB1251 have been approved by the House and Senate, respectively. A conference committee will be formed shortly to work on compromise legislation. Funds may be made available to the counties early in 1989.

For further information on agricultural security areas and the pending easement program, Chester County farmers are encouraged to contact Ray Pickering of the Agricultural Development Council, at 431-6285.

SLICK CONCRETE CAN BE ROUGHENED

SCABBLING is an effective way to avoid unnecessary losses of cattle. The SCABBLER makes bands about two inches wide approximately 1/8" to 3/16 in. depth. This gives sufficient area for good footing while allowing you to scrape the smooth surface as before. It is near enough to the surface to give your cows full advantage of the roughness and deep enough to remain effective for years. It greatly aids in heat detection.

And the good news is that it is reasonably priced. You have the choice of doing it yourself or having us do it for you. We offer service right to your door. Call us for more details.

Angus, Chianina York Fair's Supreme Beef Pair

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK — Open class beef cattle competition included entries from as far away as Tennessee, with two Pennsylvania entries claiming the show's coveted supreme titles.

Supreme female honors went to Personality, the champion Angus exhibited by York 4-H'er Jennifer Calderazzo. The January 1987-born heifer is an embryo transfer: a New Yoker daughter out of Premier Primrose. She was homebred at the GH2 Angus farm of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Calderazzo of York and has been amassing a trail of junior show titles.

Jennifer also competed in the open steer class with a 1,250-pound Angus that went on to take the grand champion steer title of that show. Taking the reserve grand champion titles in the open class steer competition was Robert Mayer with a heavyweight steer in the other and crossbred category.

The supreme bull was Nittany Prince 726, better known as Bucky, exhibited by the Moving M Farms in Warriors Mark, owned the Larry and Donna Moore family. The champion Chianina is 18 months old and was bred by Nittany Farms.

Althought the Moore family has exhibited at the York Fair for five years, this was their first win of the supreme bull honor. Bucky recently won the reserve junior champion spot at the Ohio State Fair and is scheduled to compete at the Eastern National and North American International shows.

In the Charolais competition, Paul Miller of Spring Grove won grand and reserve champion, junior champion, and champion bull honors. Taking the reserve junior and reserve bull placing was Travis Sherman of Abbottstown.

Jennifer Calderazzo showed the female junior and grand champion Angus animals, while John Hauser of The Plains, Va., exhibited the reserve female junior and reserve grand champion Angus. South Branch Farms of York had the reserve champion bull entry, while the champion bull was owned by T and J Farms in Dover.

Chianina classes were dominated by Moving M Farms of Warrior's Mark. They earned the awards for grand and junior champion female and champion bull. The reserve champion female and bull slots were filled by Millheim exhibitor Michele Hosterman.

Shorthorn honors went to Terry Shearer of Abbottstown, who faced no competition.

Several breeders shared top awards in the Simmental breeding classes, with Kenianne Rarick besting the heifer competition for grand champion female honors. The junior and reserve champion Simmental female was exhibited by William Shoemaker of Buffalo Mills. Reserve junior champion female honors went to Winter Springs Farm of Seven Valleys.

DRS Polled Herefords of Dover finished with both the junior and grand champion Hereford female. Reserve grand champion female

Robert Mayer took his heavyweight crossbred steer on to be the reserve grand champion steer of the York Fair's open steer show.

Jennifer Calderazzo's homebred Angus, Personality, was deemed the supreme beef female in the open beef show at the York Fair. The heifer also was named champion of the Angus division of 4-H beef breeding.

Nittany Prince 726 was selected as the supreme champion bull in the open beef show at the York Fair. The Chianina bull, better known as Bucky, is owned by the Larry Moore family's Moving M Farm. At the halter is Donna Moore.

was exhibited by Ed Livingston of Dover while Spring Run Farm of Abbottstown showed the reserve junior champion female.

In the Hereford bull categories, Salunga Acres of Mount Joy took senior and grand champion honors over M. BonHeart Farm in Remington, Va., who took the reserve champion spot.

Meadows Farm Cattle Co. was the major winner in the Santa Gertrudis competition. The Locust Grove, Va., breeders took grand, reserve grand and junior female champion, honors as well as grand and reserve grand champion bull. Winning the reserve junior spot was the Al Kraemer Farm in Concord, Tenn.

Trostle Dominates York Fair Youth Breeding Sheep Show

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK — Red Lion 4-H'er Matt Trostle hauled home a showbox full of ribbons after sweeping top ewe honors in three separate breed categories in the 4-H sheep breeding show at the York Fair.

The nine-year-old Trostle, in just his second year of 4-H competition, dominated the Hampshire show, taking champion and reserve champion ram, champion ewe, and the pairs class. Reserve champion ewe honors went to Michael Klinedinst of Stewartstown.

Sweeping the Dorset show was Alicia Strausbaugh of York. A veteran competitor, Alicia took all class blue ribbons.

Matt Trostle and Drew Bankert, also of Red Lion, traded off for the blue and pink rosettes in the Southdown competition. Trostle captured the champion ram and reserve champion ewe spots, while Bankert grabbed the champion ewe and reserve champion ram titles.

It was three out of four wins for Michele Leicht of York, exhibiting the champion and reserve champion ewes plus the reserve champion ram in the Suffolk show. The champion Suffolk ram was shown by Julie Kern of York.

Merino honors went to Carly Kelly of Wellsville, who faced no competition in the breeding class.

Natural Color sheep marked the lone category in which the top four honors went one to a customer. Ram competition was a run-off between sisters Lisa and Cindy Dehoff, taking champion and reserve champion respectively. Matt Trostle picked up the ewe championship over reserve champion exhibitor Kenly Jo Myers.

At the end of the competition, Jane Bosley was selected as the York Fair shepherdess while Drew Bankert was chosen as the fair's shepherd.

Cressley Regains Carbon County Hog Honors

LEHIGHTON (Carbon) — Kirk Cressley of Lehighton continued a winning tradition as his 254-pound crossbred market hog took top honors at the 110th Carbon County Fair. Cressley took the top honors two years ago and, after dropping to the reserve champion last year, he paraded his Duroc crossbred by Calvin Lazarus & Sons of Lehigh County, into the top spot last Monday, August 22.

Cressley also exhibited the grand champion pen-of-three, the grand champion lightweight, and second-place heavyweight animals. Cressley's grand champion topped Thursday's sale with successful bidder Hatfield Packing Company paying $2.50 per pound. Farm Credit then paid $.95 per pound for the two remaining hogs from Cressley's grand champion pen-of-three.

Larry Arnold of Arnold's Hog Farm was the successful bidder on the reserve champion shown by Deanna Miller.

For reserve champion Judge Dave Hartman went with a 222-pound barrow shown by Deanna Miller. Miller's medium-weight champion brought a $2.30 per pound price on Thursday and was purchased by Arnold's Hog Farm of Lebanon.

Other weight class champions included Kelly Wentz in the heavy lightweight and heavy medium-weight classes and Cory Wentz in the heavyweight class.

Champion fitter honors went to Heather Green with reserve going to Kirk Cressley. In showmanship Kelly Wentz, in her last year of 4-H, took the top spot with Cory Wentz claiming the reserve.

The August 25 sale saw 35 head go through the sale ring with an average price per pound of $.76 and $.65 per pound average excluding the grand and reserve champions. Including the grand champion Hatfield Packing Company was successful bidder on 18 head. Other buyers included Arnold's Hog Farm, George's Foodliner, Farm Credit, Raber Farms, Lazarus Farm Market, Brown Feeds, and Kuehner Brothers Farm.

Kirk Cressley's grand champion Carbon County 4-H market hog was purchased by Jerry Clemons of Hatfield Packing Company for $2.50 per pound.

McKeehan Retires From Penn State

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — James J. McKeehen, regional director for the Southeast Region of Penn State Cooperative Extension, retired from Penn State July 18 concluding a 36-year career.

As regional director, McKeehen coordinated the personnel, budget and programs for 16 southeast counties.

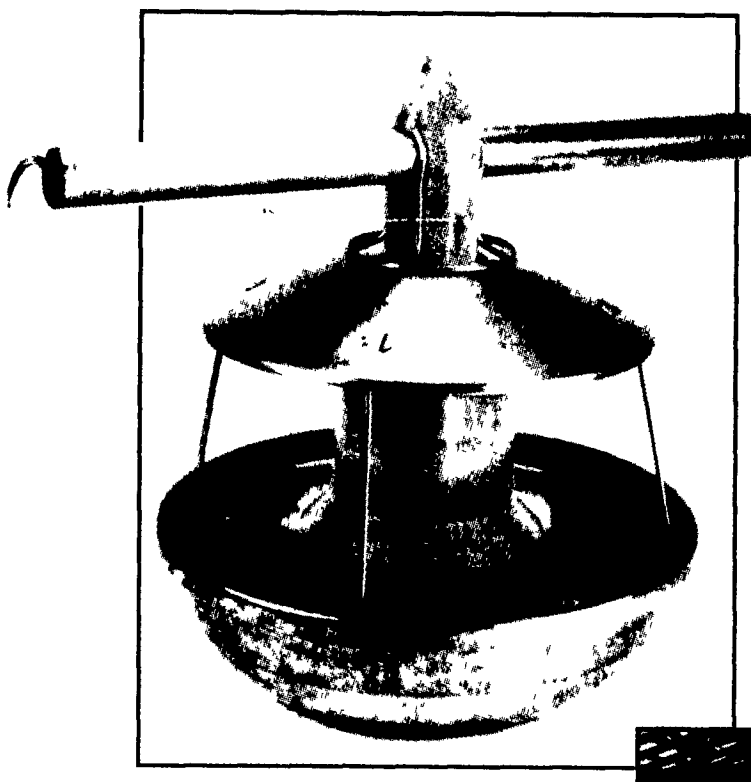
Just a month after earning a bachelor's degree in dairy science from Penn State, he began his extension career as assistant county agricultural agent in Erie County. His father, James E. McKeehen, was then county agent in Wayne County. They were the first father-son team of county agents since cooperative extension began in 1914 in Pennsylvania.

In Erie County McKeehen was active in many phases of the extension education programming including dairy, livestock, poultry, fruit, ornamentals and 4-H youth. In 1956 he was promoted from assistant to associate agent, then in 1958 he transferred to Delaware County.

In 1974 he was named Delaware County extension director. As director he was responsible for budget and personnel, and oversaw the development of all county programs. During his tenure in Delaware County, he was actively engaged in developing multi-county programs, such as a turf school, plant and pest seminars, industrial weed control seminars, fruit meetings, a shade tree symposium and regular vegetable growers' meetings.

He also initiated programs for garden supply dealers, landscape gardeners, contractors and arborists. In addition, he managed a staff of 32 full-time and part-time employees.

McKeehen and his wife, Barbara, plan to remain in State College. They are the parents of four 'Penn State' children. James graduated in '76 and Sally in '78. Ann will graduate in '89 and John in '91.



The Turkey Feeder that Solves Four Problems of Continuous Grow-Out.

1 The grower can more easily follow prescribed feeding practices and programs He has control of the system

2 Every feeder line accepts interchangeable pan sizes, medium depth and deep pans, Plus Big Dutchman offers The Orange One, a smaller feeder with a more shallow 13-inch diameter pan for starting poults

3 Feed depth and flow are controlled by a single winch at the hopper end of the line Accurate settings are easy to make without time-consuming, one-by-one adjustments Only Big Dutchman offers this depth control feature

4 The Big Dutchman turkey feeding system has an outstanding capability for programmed feeding The cable adjustment mechanism allows the operator to fill all the pans in the line to maximum capacity when birds are first brought into the house As feed is eaten out of the pans, the adjustable skirt will move down to the pre-selected position

- Strong central core keeps the skirt aligned and holds pan and shield in position
- Large pan is extra deep with feed saving lip The large pan is 5 inches deep, medium pan is 3 inches deep
- Draw cable raises or lowers all pan skirts in the line Maximum feed flow opening is 4 5 inches
- Ample open space between the pan and the upper shield allows adult turkeys to eat comfortably
- Suspension of the plastic core is strengthened by steel hangers that engage the plastic core above the auger tube
- There are no small parts Assembly and maintenance are simple and easy
- Interchangeable pan sizes provide versatility matching the feeding equipment to the needs and growth stages of the flock from poults to heavy toms

Performance Tested Boar Sale

The Pennsylvania Dept. of Agriculture's Meat Animal Evaluation Center would like to announce the results of Pennsylvania's very successful 11th Performance Tested Boar Sale.

The sale was held Wednesday evening, August 17, 1988. Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Neil Buss, Dr. Paul Wangness, head of the Department of Dairy and Animal Science at Penn State and Dave Reinicker, president of the Pennsylvania Pork Producers Council started things off by presenting remarks to the large crowd of buyers and spectators.

The first boar in the ring was the top-indexing boar out of 80 boars that had undergone the intensive testing procedure. This Yorkshire boar was out of the top-indexing pen, which had been consigned by Penn State University and appropriately sold for the top price of the day at $1,400. The successful bidder on this outstanding boar was Brian Hege of Fayetteville, Pennsylvania.

The second-highest selling boar was the top boar in the second-highest indexing pen, which had been consigned by RPM Farms of Beavertown. This boar had the second-highest individual index of the 80 boars. This Yorkshire boar was purchased by Penn State University for $1,200.

There were 37 boars offered for sale, and each found a new home. This was only the second sale out of the 11 in which all of the boars offered for sale were sold for the minimum sale price or better. The minimum sale price was $300. The 37 boars averaged $526 per boar.

The 23 Yorkshire boars sold averaged $553 each. The two top selling Yorkshire boars also were the top-selling boars of the sale.

The seven Duroc boars averaged $479 each with the top two out of the pen consigned by Lazarus Brothers of Germansville, Pa. They sold for $700 to James Mathis of Julian, Pa., and for $625 to Hillside Acres of Lenhartsville, Pa., respectively.

The two Spotted boars offered were both bred by Kenneth Ketterer of Newville, Pa., and they both were sold for $600. The two successful bidders on these boars were Lyn Lee Farm of State College, and Paul Brown of Mill Creek.

The two Hampshire boars averaged $525. They were consigned by Donald Lake and Henry Gruber and both were purchased by Hillside Acres for $650 and $400, respectively.

The two Berkshire boars averaged $413. These boars were consigned by Russel Cornbower of New Freedom, Pa., and they were both purchased by Charles Lobaugh of Aspers, Pa.

The lone Landrace boar was owned by Larry Baum of Elizabethtown, PA and sold to Bobby Sperow of Martinsburg, W.V., for $300.
